Negotiators in Chrysler strike fail to reach agreement as they end third day of conference at Lansing, Mich., but Gov. Murphy reports "progress"; meetings will be resumed today. Details on Page 6.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will return from his vacation tomorrow to face some of the most momentous problems that have ever vexed an administration of the national government. The major problems are:

1. The spread of sitdown strikes, involving mass trespass upon private property, defiance of the decisions and orders of the courts and of state governments by large aggregations of strikers and their sympathizers and the danger that such resort to force will lead to insurrection.

2. The menace of a runaway inflation of the currency which Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board recently warned can be averted only by a "prompt balancing" of the budget, even if it becomes necessary to increase taxes, and by a reversal of other Roosevelt policies.

Supporters Apprehensive.

These questions that have aroused the gravest apprehensions even among the President's most loyal supporters will be the subject of a conference Mr. Roosevelt will hold with administration leaders in congress shortly after his return to Washington tomorrow.

Among those he has asked to confer with him are Vice President Garner, Speaker Bankhead of the house, and Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas and Representative Sam Rayburn of Texas, Democratic leaders of the senate and house.

The conference is one that Mr. Roosevelt reluctantly summoned. In fact, his hand was forced by the rising tide of conviction among Democratic leaders in congress that his silence on the sitdown form of strike and his failure to take a stand in support of obedience to the courts had incited the seizure of property by the sitdown strikers and encouraged the strikers to defy the law.

Protests Voiced in Congress.

Almost every day during the last week Democrats have been arising in the senate and house and voicing their condemnation of the attitude of the President and their apprehensions that unless he acts speedily in defense of law and order there is no telling what catastrophe the widespread resort to sitdown strikes will precipitate.

Finally when Democratic legislators such as Representative Martin Dies of Texas began introducing bills providing for federal action to stop sitdown strikes administration leaders took alarm and rushed to the long distance telephone to advise Mr. Roosevelt at Warm Springs that the situation was getting out of hand.

There was the danger that congress would take the bit in its teeth and pass legislation on sitdown strikes that would reflect seriously on the President's failure to act. Some extremely forceful representations are reported to have gone over the wire to Warm Springs before Mr. Roosevelt consented to call the conference.

Robinson Predicts Action.

Senator Robinson, who recently pronounced the sitdown strike unlawful, made a public statement that the growing seriousness of the situation would compel leaders in congress to consider a program of action. Within an hour thereafter came the announcement from Warm Springs that Mr. Roosevelt had summoned the leaders to meet him upon his return to Washington.

The situation in which the President finds himself is unparalleled. In the conference he has been forced to call he will be on the defensive. He will face two wings of his party, the demands of which he cannot satisfy without facing two ways. On the one hand are the conservative Democrats insisting that he take effective action to stop sitdown strikes or at least throw his moral support on the

MUD FROM LAKE IN WATER; WILL CLEAR UP SOON

If your drinking water tastes a bit muddy and looks as though the breakfast dishes had been washed in it, be patient. It will be clear again in a few days. There is nothing you or the city can do about it now, according to City Engineer Loran D. Gayton.

Two days of strong east winds have whipped up sediment on the lake bottom, Mr. Gayton said yesterday. The normal amount of turbidity in Chicago water is 5 parts in 1,000,000. Thursday it was 105 and yesterday 48.

10,000 ITALIANS FLEE IN SECOND SPANISH DEFEAT

Retreat in Disorder on Cordoba Front.

Duce to Stop Aid

LONDON.—Premier Mussolini promises to send no more "volunteers" to Spain, London hears; Italian dictator may even consider withdrawal of troops already in Spain. Page 3.

MADRID, March 26.—(AP)—The Spanish government tonight announced its second major victory within a week in a smashing drive against rebel positions outside Pozoblanco, 150 miles southwest of Madrid near Cordoba.

Jubilantly the Madrid defense junta announced that the insurgents were driven back five miles from the important garrison, key to valuable mercury mines, and that 10,000 Italian soldiers were among those put to rout. The retreat was described as "disorderly."

It was the second major defeat suffered by the Italian "volunteers" in Spain. Last week the government drove back an army of Italians estimated to number 30,000 to 40,000 on the Guadalajara front northeast of Madrid. The Italians fled in wild disorder to a point 50 miles from the capital.

Loyalists Capture Coal Mine.

Official reports said that in today's fighting a government column occupied the Cantellano coal mine, an important hill position only a mile and a half from the rebel concentration point of Alcaracejos, about eight miles west of Pozoblanco. The mine was taken after bitter fighting, preceded by heavy shelling.

Another government column advancing from Hinojosa de Duque pressed forward two more miles, making its total advance five miles during the night and day.

Warplanes and artillery paved the way for repeated government infantry attacks. Pilots recounted the destruction of a 30 car rebel troop train and part of a cavalry troop in the bombardment of the area about Pozoblanco.

Defeated Italians Removed.

Loyalist bombers today bombed and machine gunned rebel trenches and artillery emplacements in the Guadalajara sector. Air scouts and rebel deserters confirmed reports that the defeated Italians had vanished from the area.

Government officials said internal fighting among the Italians was the reason for their removal. These officials said an "enormous number of corpses had been found in certain places, indicating that those in the front line had been shot by others behind them."

Transfer of the Italians to other fronts was expected. Spaniards have moved into the positions vacated by the Italians, it was said.

Government planes were active over the Madrid sector today, patroling the sky against expected enemy attacks which did not materialize.

Halt Shelling on Good Friday.

The rebels sent one shell into the Madrid downtown section this morning, but abstained from shelling for the rest of the day—Good Friday.

Their airplanes were active last night, however, in bombing several towns, including Castellón, on the east coast north of Valencia.

A Valencia report said a French passenger liner, Imeryti, had arrived there under escort of the French cruiser Suffran, which came to its rescue after bombardment by a rebel warship in the Balearic Islands.

Heavy pressure was brought against the Mediterranean coast town of Motril, held by the rebels. Government troops sought to push Gen. Francisco Franco's men back toward Malaga.

Five rebel bombing planes took a heavy toll in a raid on Alcazar de San Juan, southeast of Toledo. Wounded were still being taken from the wreckage of many houses tonight.

Catalan Cabinet Quits.

BARCELONA, Spain, March 26.—(AP)—The cabinet of the autonomous state of Catalonia headed by Premier José Tarraddellas resigned today. President Luis Companys announced that names of a new cabinet would be announced Monday or Tuesday "at the earliest." Reasons for the resignation were not given. President Companys said details would be published tomorrow.

The autonomous Catalonian régime is allied with the Spanish government at Valencia.

JUST ONE CONSTANT PAIN TO OLD LEO

PICKS 10 WORDS AS MOST ABUSED IN ALL AMERICA

New York, March 26.—(AP)—Now come the ten "most overworked" words.

Wilfred J. Funk, dictionary maker, magazine editor, book publisher and poet, compiled the list, and named classes of people he considers their "most flagrant abusers."

Okay—Children and shopgirls.

Lousy—Ditto.

Contact [both verb and noun]—Advertising workers.

Gal—Broadwayites.

Racket—Tradesmen.

Swell—Interior decorators.

Impact—Columnists and commentators.

Honey—Stock brokers.

Funk's interest in words led him to compile a widely published list of the ten "most beautiful" several years ago.

As for Park avenue saying "Yes, definitly," "definitly so," and "definitly" a lot of other things, Funk thinks social circles are becoming British-minded.

"The joke is they think it's an aristocratic English word, whereas the fact is that the English charwoman or dustman [the lowliest type of housemaid and the garbage collector, to you] can hardly bear to leave 'definitly' out of a sentence."

Funk's most beautiful words were —dawn, hush, lullaby, murmuring, tranquil, mist, luminous, chimes, golden, and melody.

'STRONGER GROG TO INSPIRE TARS' IS BRITISH ORDER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 26.—British tars will get stronger grog as the latest step in the government's valiant effort to make life brighter in the fighting services. The admiralty announced tonight that the grog will be diluted by only two parts of water instead of three. The aim of the diluted grog has been to discourage drunkenness, but it has proved to be an uninspiring drink. Only chief petty officers get grog pure.

The admiralty, taking the new step in hopes of raising morale, revealed further moves to increase the navy's strength when it announced sixteen more destroyers have been ordered. This brings to forty the total ordered in less than two years. Eight more are to be ordered this year. All sixteen are J class ships of 1,650 tons. They are capable of 36 knots and carry six guns of 4.7 inch caliber. These are bigger than the "standard" British destroyers of 1,350 tons.

Taxicab Strike Ends; Drivers Rush to Jobs

Chicago's taxicab strike, in which most of the 5,500 drivers in the city demanded and sometimes fought for higher wages, ended last night after 21 days. Peace agreements were signed by company executives and union leaders at the city hall. Hundreds of the drivers returned to work immediately. Orders went out for others to report at 6 a. m. today.

The Yellow Cab company and the Checker Taxicab company agreed to recognize the Midwest Taxicab Drivers' union, organized at the outset of the strike, as bargaining agency for its members. What benefits are to be derived by the strikers will be determined in negotiations between the company and union representatives. The drivers said they struck because their weekly wage averaged, with a few exceptions, between $10 and $15 a week.

3 Days of Conferences.

The settlement was reached after three days of almost continuous conferences arranged by members of the city council committee on local transportation. Mayor Kelly communicated frequently with the aldermen by telephone in the final hours. The chairman of the committee is James R. Quinn [50th], and acting head of the taxicab subcommittee is James J. Mc Dermott [14th]. The chairman of this group, B. A. Cronson [4th], was in New York the last two days.

Members of the drivers' strike committees were in a jovial mood as settlement was reached. So was Thomas B. Hogan, president of the Yellow Cab company.

Congratulates Aldermen.

"I want to congratulate you boys," he told the drivers as they gathered around him. "We're proud of having the best chauffeurs in the world. And I want to congratulate the aldermen, too. They never worked so hard in all their lives."

Michael Sokoll, president, signed for the Checker company. Signers for the union were Attorney Joseph M. Jacobs, Dominic Abata, chairman of the Checker drivers' strike committee, and Oscar Kofkin, chairman of the Yellow drivers' committee. Sokoll compromised on the $54,000 owed the company for three weeks' storage and maintenance by 1,000 drivers who own their own cabs. He cut it to $25,000—$25 a man, payable at $1 a week.

In the event of disputes between the companies and union representatives, the agreements set up a board of arbitration of two company men, two union men, and a fifth to be chosen by Judge Evan A. Evans, presiding judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

ROBBERS SLAY DOG BATTLING FOR MISTRESS

Pal, a young police dog, died a hero's death last night. He was out walking with his owner, Samuel Rubenstein, owner of a cigar store at 3300 South Wabash avenue, when two colored bandits invaded the store and held up Rubenstein's wife, Minnie. A third bandit stayed outside.

Mrs. Rubenstein gave up $3, but the robbers demanded more. "Where's the big money?" they asked. When she said there wasn't any more the gunmen knocked her to the floor and started to tie her wrists.

Rubenstein and Pal were returning to the store at this moment. The dog sensed something wrong. He dashed into the store and leaped at the bandits. They fired two shots at Pal, but he pressed the attack. Three more shots were fired. Pal slumped over dead. The gunmen escaped.

Confession of D. W. Griffith Bares a Lover

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—David Wark Griffith wrote a confession to his wife 25 years ago. It was a confession of his infidelities—and a frank prediction that he would continue to fall in and out of love with the beautiful women in Hollywood's early movie colony. No one knew about that letter for 25 years, but the great director and the woman from whom he separated, Linda Avidson Griffith.

Tomorrow the world will know about Griffith's confession. Mrs. Griffith had preserved the yellowed letter, had treasured it all these years. A photostat of the famous producer-director's handwritten confession was filed in Manhattan Supreme court. It was filed to prove that the great film genius fled from his first wife because he also was a great lover—and not because she drove him away, as he charges.

Neither First Nor Last.

"After your discovery of that letter written by a certain woman, I have not been able to see how we could possibly live together any longer. . . ." the document says. "There were others before her, and there are sure to be others just as objectionable in every way after her."

It was December of 1910, Mrs. Griffith said, when she found a letter—written by "a certain movie actress" whose name was kept a secret—on the dresser in her Los Angeles home. Griffith assured her he would be faithful after she produced that letter, she said.

In the spring of 1911, he went to New York. On June 8, 1911, Mrs. Griffith received the letter from him. On July 8, 1911, a separation agreement was signed.

"Let me lead my own life, and you yours," he wrote. "I am better off morally, and all ways, outside of marriage, and so will you be. For God's sake, don't attempt to get me to continue the old way, as it would only lead us both into endless misery and suffering."

Wife Collects Million.

Griffith abandoned her, Mrs. Griffith maintained. He said she was a vixen who made his life a terror. She collected a million dollars from him, he said, when she threatened to jeopardise his career as director and producer.

Mrs. Griffith is suing for $50,000 back alimony, asserting D. W. promised her 15 per cent of his income. She also is assailing as illegal his February, 1936, divorce from her at La Grange, Ky. [his 1875 birthplace], asserting she was not served in the action, and also the legality of his marriage the following month to Evelyn Marjorie Baldwin, 27 year old blonde New Yorker. Griffith has filed a separate suit for $500,000, charging that his first wife damaged his reputation.

Not One, but Many.

"Don't think it is some other woman in the case," the letter adds. "It is not one, but many. And myself, I have no intention of marriage with some one else. I know full well if I couldn't make it go with you, Linda, there is no woman living I could do it with."

The Griffith letter was fully 300 words long. In it, he pleaded for a separation and admitted: "I did at first think I could continue the ordinary life of deceptions and lies common to the majority of husbands until this fatal discovery in Los Angeles, but since then I know it would be worse than useless."

The letter was filed by Mrs. Griffith with a motion to strike part of Griffith's answer to her alimony suit.

SCREAM INSULTS AT MIMIC JUDAS; FORCED TO FLEE

ANTICOLI CORRADO, Italy, March 26.—(AP)—Easter peasants, lost in religious fervor, cuffed and screamed insults today at the most unpopular of their community, the man forced to play the role of Judas Iscariot, as they reënacted the entombment of Christ.

A dummy coffin, supposed to contain the body of Christ, was carried through the village streets in traditional Good Friday ceremony to the local burial ground.

So sorrowfully vituperative did spectators become that the poor mimic Judas had to leave the procession before it reached the outskirts of town and hide in the home of a friend.

DOUBLE INQUIRY STARTED AFTER STORY OF BRIBE

Irregularity Alleged in Both Trials.

Three judges of the Criminal court sat en banc yesterday and heard testimony which prompted them instantly to start two investigations of alleged jury tampering in the two embezzlement trials of Frank V. Zintak, ousted clerk of the Superior court.

Judge Robert C. O'Connell ordered hearings to start at 9:30 a. m. today on the confession of a juror that he accepted $25 to hold out for acquittal in Zintak's first trial, in which the jury was discharged after 41 hours' inability to agree.

Judge Benjamin P. Epstein will begin hearings on Monday to inquire into charges that jurors in Zintak's second trial enjoyed a Sunday bus ride during which they drank at three taverns and bought whisky for consumption later in the jury room. That jury acquitted Zintak after six hours' deliberation.

Ousted for $26,500 Shortage.

Zintak, a veteran Democratic party leader, was ousted as clerk of the Superior court last Sept. 15 after an investigation disclosed a $26,500 shortage in the funds of his office. He repaid the money, but five indictments charging embezzlement were returned against him, and he was tried twice on the specific charge of embezzling $10,500.

The charges yesterday were made before Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley, Judge O'Connell, who heard the first trial, and Judge Epstein, who presided at the second. The evidence was presented by State's Attorney Courtney, who requested a full investigation of the matter.

Bribery Asserted and Denied.

The bribery charges were made by Gustave Anderson, 58 years old, 330 West 58th street, a juror in Zintak's first trial. He said Robert W. McKinlay paid him $25 and promised him a job to hold out for a not guilty verdict. McKinlay, a receiver in the federal court, was a character witness for Zintak at both trials. McKinlay, reached by telephone last night at Biloxi, Miss., where he is on vacation, denounced Anderson's statements as "a lot of lies."

Under questioning by Judge O'Connell and by First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley, Anderson told of events leading up to the alleged bribe.

Q. [by Judge O'Connell]—Did any one talk to you or did you talk to any one before that trial? A.—Three days after I was on the regular jury panel I met a man in Eddie's restaurant at 59th and Wentworth. Bob came in.

Acquainted for 40 Years.

Q.—Whom do you mean by Bob? A.—Robert W. McKinlay whom I have known for 40 years. We were in the Sherwood school, although he was one class ahead of me.

Q.—What was said? A.—Bob said: "Now you are going to serve on the Zintak jury. Don't forget you'll be well taken care of and I'll see to it."

Q. [by Mr. Crowley].—Didn't you tell me that Bob told you: "I want you to get on that case. I know you'll be on it. We will see that you are. We will make it all right if you hold out for him?" A.—That's the truth.

Q.—Did you participate in the jury deliberation? A.—No. I sat in a corner and voted not guilty.

Recounts Visit to Office.

Q.—When did you see Mr. McKinlay next? A.—Just before Christmas I went to his office at 175 West Jackson. He gave me $25. I refused it at first. I wanted the job on the water department that he had promised me at $7 a day or better for four years. I was all set for the first of March. Bob told me I was to go under a Polish name, and I said I didn't care.

Q.—Did you ever talk to Mr. McKinlay about the second trial? A.—Yes. I went to his office again and I was given a letter to a Mr. Reinert [Attorney T. J. Reinert] and Attorney Scott Hogan at 155 North Clark street. They showed me a jury list for the new trial and asked me to point out names of men that I knew. I pointed out two names.

Q. [by Judge O'Connell]—Did you actually know these men? A.—No, I didn't. I just told them that to get out of it. I suppose because I thought I could influence them. They told me if I knew anybody on there I could tell them how to vote.

Q.—Why are you telling this story? A.—Well, I was double-crossed.

The witness, who wore a blue coat and trousers that did not match, went on to say that he has not worked for six years because his hands are crippled. When he did not get the promised job on the first of March, he said, he went to McKinlay's office.

"McKinlay told me he couldn't fix it up until Paddy Nash gets back to town," Anderson said. Patrick A. Nash is head of the Cook county Democratic central committee.

"Finally I got mad," the witness related, "and told McKinlay's secretary to tell Bob that he didn't have to bother about me. I came to the conclusion that they were bulling me. Then I went to the state's attorney's office."

Unexpectedly Out for Supper.

Anderson seemed astonished when Judge O'Connell ordered him held in $2,000 bail on an attachment for contempt of court.

"I've got everything bought for my supper," he said. "I thought I'd go right home."

Unable to post bond, Anderson was held over night at the prosecutor's office. Subpenas were issued by Judge O'Connell for the appearance before him today of all the persons named in Anderson's story.

One of these persons, Attorney Reinert, dismissed the charges with this statement:

"What he said is all bunk. We never had a jury list. We never talked to Anderson or anybody about the case. He came to our office weeks after the first trial. We never could understand why."

McKinlay to Rush Home.

In Biloxi McKinlay announced he would return to Chicago immediately, although he said he had intended to stay there until April 7 with his wife and daughter.

"Mr. Anderson has told a lot of lies," he said. "I have known him for 30 years or more, and for the last two years he has been coming to my office asking me to get him a job. I was trying to get him a job, but he's a Republican and that makes it difficult.

"About ten days ago he left word at my office saying never mind about the job—he would get himself fixed up another way. Apparently the state's attorney is sore because he couldn't convict an innocent man. He appears now to be trying to besmirch my character and reputation. Any statement that I paid anybody a bribe or offered a job is absolutely unfounded."

Close to Zintak Since 1932.

McKinlay added that he has been an intimate friend of Zintak since 1932, when they helped organize the first Roosevelt for President club in Chicago. During both Zintak trials McKinlay was present at every court session, and at each trial he waited at Zintak's side while the jury was deliberating.

McKinlay is a brother of Judge Donald S. McKinlay of the Superior court and of John McKinlay, former merchant.

Robert McKinlay has been active in Democratic politics for many years. As a young man he was elected a member of the legislature, where he was known as the Kindergarten Kid.

He served as a county commissioner from 1919 to 1922, and was chairman of the board of election commissioners in 1923. He was an unsuccessful candidate for president of the county board in 1926, being defeated by the late A. J. Cermak.

INVESTIGATOR ON STAND

The testimony relating to Zintak's second trial, presented yesterday before Chief Justice McKinley and Judge Epstein, was given by Roy Arnold, 8142 Ingleside avenue, an investigator for the state's attorney's office. Arnold said he questioned several jurors and other persons who came in contact with them while they were supposed to be locked up on orders of Judge Epstein.

He talked first to Charles Haynes, driver for a trucking concern which furnished a bus in which, on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 31, the jurors were taken for a drive.

"Haines told me the bus was in charge of and was directed by Deputy Sherif Daniel Miller," Arnold asserted. "Haines said he drove the jurors to 22d street and Wolf road, where they spent 30 minutes in a roadhouse. Then they went to Jim Farmer's tavern near Maywood where they stayed for two hours.

In Tavern of Juror's Uncle.

"The jurors then went in the bus, according to Haynes, to the Palm Gardens tavern, which is owned by a man named Bruns, who is an uncle of George Bruns, 306 Desplaines avenues, Forest Park, one of the men on the jury."

While in this tavern, Arnold said Haynes told him, the jurors were allowed to separate, some going to the rear, some to the front of the place.

FRANK V. ZINTAK

Ousted clerk of the Superior court as he appeared on witness stand. A member of jury at first trial charged yesterday that he was paid $25 and offered a city job if he would hold out for a not guilty verdict.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Court attachés pointed out it is irregular for a jury to be in the custody of only one bailif. Usually there are two in charge of all trips outside the Criminal courts building.

"Before going back to their quarters," Arnold said, "all the jurors chipped in and bought two bottles of whisky which they brought back and drank while they played cards."

Quotes One of the Twelve.

The investigator told of interviewing John L. Moore, 3023 Irving Park boulevard, a member of the jury.

"Moore told about the bus ride," Arnold said, "and about buying the whisky, and said Bailif Miller got the jurors more whisky from time to time. He said the jurors were allowed to walk separately in the corridors and to make unsupervised telephone calls."

On the jury's first ballot on a verdict, according to Juror Moore's story as told by Arnold, the vote was 7 to 5 for not guilty. Later ballots brought the vote to 10 to 2 for not guilty. The two jurors who were holding out for a guilty verdict, he said, were Joseph DeFrank, 177 Interocean avenue, South Chicago Heights, and Morley J. Frank, 705 Clarence avenue, Oak Park.

Abuse Two for Opinion.

Juror Bruns and another juror, Alvin Ernest, 918 South Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park, then became abusive to the two men who were holding out, Moore told Arnold.

"Bruns finally took DeFrank into the washroom and there was a heated discussion," Arnold continued. "DeFrank agreed to vote not guilty if Frank would do likewise. The next ballot was unanimous for acquittal."

Arnold said DeFrank corroborated Moore's account of the jury's deliberations and disclosed further that a woman visited Juror Bruns during their trips from the courtroom to the jury quarters.

Invited to Special Parties.

Arnold told the judges his investigation disclosed that a month after the favorable verdict Robert McKinlay sent invitations to all the jurors to attend a party in Zintak's honor in the Elks club, 6156 Cottage Grove avenue. Eight of the jurors attended, he said. Later invitations to a second party at the Bruns tavern in Forest Park were sent out by Bruns himself.

Judge Epstein ordered subpenas issued for all persons mentioned in Arnold's narrative, and said he would conduct a complete inquiry starting Monday morning. He remarked that the bus ride was proper as a Sunday afternoon diversion for a locked up jury, but added:

"A tavern jamboree is something else again."

Zintak Freed of All Charges.

No charges are pending against former Clerk Zintak. The four indictments remaining against him after his acquittal were nol prossed before Judge Epstein on March 4. At that time Zintak announced he intended to continue active in politics.

His chief defense at both of his trials was that nobody had lost any money and that his mishandling of court funds had been done with a philanthropic motive. He had acted, he said, on the advice of judges of the Superior court, who told him it was all right to use office funds for salary advances to court employés during the payless pay days of the depression.

Judges Named as Borrowers.

At his second trial Zintak named three judges as having received salary advances from court funds. They are Judge Joseph B. David, former chief justice of the Superior court, former Judge Marcus Kavanagh, and the late Judge Harry Lewis. Kavanagh, he said, still owes him $300.

Judge David took the witness stand as a prosecution rebuttal witness, and denied he gave Zintak legal advice, that he borrowed funds of the office, or that he gave Zintak postdated checks, except on one occasion when one of his checks was held for a time.

The jury in Zintak's first trial was reported divided 6 to 6 when it was discharged on Dec. 10. The second trial ended on Feb. 3.

INDICT BROTHERS AFTER SHOOTING GALLERY KILLING

True bills were reported voted by the grand jury yesterday against Edwin Kalinowski, 28 years old, and his brother, Roman, 26, both of 101 South Throop street, charging them with the murder of Julius Rohde, 65 years old, in his shooting gallery at 1612 Madison street on Feb. 22. Charles Walker, 12 years old, 1708 Arcade place, caused the arrest of the brothers when he told the police he saw them enter the gallery the night of the slaying and begin beating Rohde. Young Walker appeared before the grand jury on Thursday.

STATE SCOLDED BY OWN WITNESS IN FRAUD TRIAL

Secretary Denies Story Elicited by Prosecutor.

A pert secretary to an attorney charged with conspiracy in presenting fake accident claims, took the witness stand for the state yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge George Fred Rush. Although a state witness she unexpectedly denied part of the testimony previously presented for the state by its chief witness, George L. West, confessed ambulance chaser.

The young woman is Mae Monroe, who was called in the trial of her employer, Attorney Leo M. Tarpey, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Feeley, 2243 West 71st street. The trial is the first of persons arrested in the recent exposé of the fraudulent claims racket.

West on Thursday had declared that Miss Monroe, during the heat of the investigation, met him outside Tarpey's office and warned him to stay away. "She told me," West said, "the heat is on. . . . You'd better not see Tarpey until things quiet down. Just talk to him by telephone."

Denies the Conversation.

Yesterday Miss Monroe denied she ever had any such conversation with West, and she scolded Assistant State's Attorney James Brown for eliciting such testimony.

"I absolutely said nothing of the kind," she declared when Defense Attorney Harold Levy referred to West's testimony. "I didn't say that to Mr. West and I want that made absolutely clear." She turned to Brown. "And I don't think it was very nice of you, Mr. Brown," she said, "to have that kind of testimony in this case."

The spectators chuckled. They had previously laughed outright when Miss Monroe first took the stand. Asked if she was Attorney Tarpey's private secretary, she replied: "Yes, I'm his secretary, but I don't know how private that is."

Good Faith Is Claimed.

Questioning of Miss Monroe chiefly concerned technicalities in a personal injury case involving the Feeleys, which Tarpey handled. The defense contends that Tarpey acted in good faith in the case, and did not know that injuries claimed by the Feeleys and Mr. and Mrs. James Valentine, 7253 South Rockwell street, two other defendants who have won separate trials, were faked, as the state charges.

Dr. Herman Mackoff, 7054 South Western avenue, family physician to the Valentines, testified that he treated the injuries of the Valentines, but that he could not say whether they were genuine. After hearing testimony from surface lines investigators, the trial was continued to today.

CHEMICAL FIRE FATAL.

Miss Hilda Borgeson, 55 years old, cook for Mrs. Charles M. Hewitt, 1411 North State street, died in the Henrotin hospital last night of burns suffered on Thursday when cleaning fluid exploded.

CAPTAIN'S HOBBY SAVES HIS CREW AS SHIP SINKS

Boston, Mass., March 26.—(AP)—Sixteen shipwrecked mariners landed here in safety today because a youthful skipper of a little, old Norwegian tramp freighter spent hours off watch while third officer on another ship learning wireless.

He is Capt. Bjarne Sverdrup, 30, a seafarer since 18, who, until the ship sank almost beneath his feet last Tuesday, was master of the 38 year old freighter Bjerkli.

Capt. Sverdrup modestly admitted, as he arrived today on the coast guard cutter Chelan, he tapped out the ragged dots and dashes of a distress call which diverted a dozen liners and freighters from their courses to seek the Bjerkli, which foundered in a winter gale 650 miles east of Boston.

Crack operators of other vessels, who heard his uncertain signals, described them as "amateurish." But Capt. Sverdrup doesn't mind being known as a "ham" operator, for he brought help.

DUCE PROMISES TO STOP SENDING TROOPS TO SPAIN

London Reports Dictator Is Backing Down.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 26.—Premier Mussolini of Italy has given way on Spain and promised Great Britain that he would send no more men there to fight for the rebel leader, Gen. Francisco Franco, it was reported tonight. Il Duce, according to one report, even indicated that he might consider recalling the Italian "volunteers" already there.

While most people were awaiting a violent retort to the highly uncomplimentary remarks made about Il Duce by David Lloyd George and others in the house of commons yesterday, it was revealed that the cabinet had known for two days that Mussolini apparently had done an about-face and decided to talk matters over despite the recent fiery and uncompromising words of Count Dino Grandi, his ambassador in London.

French Patience Near End.

Grandi's declaration, in which he was quoted as saying no Italian would leave Spain before the end of the war, put many backs up and diplomatic circles were relieved greatly by tonight's report.

French patience, it was feared, is near the breaking point. The warning by Yvon Delbos, French foreign minister, that France would not tolerate reinforcements to Gen. Franco was taken seriously enough here for any sign of conciliation to be highly welcome.

The diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph said today that the international nonintervention committee will meet early in April to consider plans for recalling all foreign "volunteers" from Spain.

The chief British concern apparently, is to avoid a new meeting of the league of nations, which the Spanish government desires. Recent experiences with league action have been unfortunate, and the British do not relish taking another chance at having Mussolini thumb his nose at Geneva.

Italy Angered by Speeches.

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

ROME, March 26.—The debate in the British house of commons yesterday caused a new wave of resentment and indignation to sweep over the Italian peninsula today.

Public resentment against Great Britain is as strong and bitter as it ever was during the height of the Ethiopian conflict and the league of nations sanctions, led by Britain, but it is accompanied now by a feeling of bewilderment.

During the East African crisis, Italians knew exactly where they stood. They realized that they were doing their best to seize Ethiopia, and that Britain was doing its best to prevent them. Now the Italians sense that they again are faced by a grave crisis, but they are at a loss to know what it is all about. Most of them are wondering why their relations with Britain have suddenly become strained almost to the breaking point.

A section of the Italian press, instead of acting to allay the apprehension and decrease the tension, is actively engaged in fanning the flames of popular feeling.

The newspaper Tevere, for instance, today printed an account of the house of commons proceedings yesterday under large headlines saying: "Laborites, Socialists and Liberals vie with each other in insulting Italy."

Hitler's Envoy Visits Duce.

ROME, March 26.—(AP) -Ambassador Ulrich von Hassel of Germany, just back from Berlin, was received by Premier Mussolini tonight. Authoritative quarters indicated that he had communicated Reichsfuehrer Hitler's views on the Spanish situation to the Italian leader.

Officials said the ambassador and Il Duce discussed "Upending political questions." These were understood to include the impending visit to Rome of Kurt von Schuschnigg, Austrian chancellor, who is expected to discuss with Mussolini the question of restoration of the Austrian monarchy.

FLYER LEAPS FOR HIS LIFE; SLAIN BY FELLOW PILOT

GUADALAJARA, Spain, March 26.—(AP)—Combatants on the Guadalajara front watched a spectacular air drama today—a drama in which a rebel pilot was shot dead as he parachuted to the ground by an airman who, government officers said, was one of his fellows.

The body fell inside government lines and was buried. Government officers said papers found in his pockets indicated he was a German.

The victim was the pilot of one of twenty pursuit planes protecting rebel bombers as they flew over government occupied territory. A government plane shot down one of the enemy ships. The pilot bailed out and drifted down slowly under his billowy parachute. Quickly another rebel plane separated itself from combat and began spiralling around the parachute jumper, spitting machine gun fire. Government soldiers found the jumper's body riddled with bullets.

FALLS 30 FEET; INJURED.

William Van, 56 years old, of Westmont, a riveter, was seriously injured yesterday when he fell 30 feet from the steel framework of a viaduct being built across Kedzie avenue and 75th street.

Edward Pulaski, 31 years old, 5507 South Bishop street, was held to the grand jury in bond of $2,500 yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court on a charge of assault with attempt to kill. Policeman Timothy Tuohy, 8213 South Green street, of the Englewood station, testified that on Jan. 24 Pulaski fired six shots at him and Patronella Murphy, 30 years old, 5510 Cornell avenue, a policewoman, in front of her apartment. During the hearing it was brought out that Miss Murphy had been friendly with Pulaski, and that the latter objected when she started going out with Tuohy.

PRAYER HUSHES WAR RUMBLE IN SEVILLE FOR DAY

Throngs Kneel in Pageant Centuries Old.

SEVILLE, Spain, March 26.—(AP)—The colorful pageantry of Holy week processions ended at sunrise today after thousands of residents of rebel held Seville had prayed before two famous images saved by Spain's bullfighters from the ravages of war.

The statues, the Madonna of the Faith of Macarena and the Christ of Great Power, borne upon richly canopied platforms between a thousand burning candles, were greeted with cries of joy and chants all along the procession route through the streets of Seville.

It was the first public appearance of the images since before the civil war started. Months ago bullfighters secretly took the statues of their patron saints out of churches and hid them in other buildings. The Macarena church was burned and many believed the statue of the Madonna had been destroyed.

Gen. O'Duffy of Ireland Present.

Ireland's Gen. Owen O'Duffy, who has 1,000 Irishmen fighting with him on the rebel side, was among those who came to Seville to witness the ceremonies. He said he intended to remain in Spain "for the duration."

The hush of prayer settled over Seville upon conclusion of the centuries old pageantry, in which barefoot women and girls tramped the cobblestone streets to pay tribute to the holy virgin.

Their shoes were discarded as a symbol of sacrificial faithfulness for their husbands, sweethearts, and fathers fighting in the ranks of the insurgent leader, Generalissimo Francisco Franco. Many of the women were in mourning.

No Observance in Madrid.

MADRID, March 26.—(AP)—Easter week services were conspicuously absent from Madrid this year. The war has nearly eliminated traditional religious observances.

RACKET RIDDEN NEW YORK WILL SEE NEW DRIVE

Trucking Industry Next on Prosecutor's List.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—Determined to follow up the conviction of all seven defendants in the sensational restaurant extortion trial with similar successes, Special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey was vigorously at work today mapping plans for new forays into the multitudinous rackets flourishing here under the protection of politicians.

The names of President Roosevelt, Gov. H. H. Lehman, Mayor F. H. La Guardia, and other officials were introduced in the trial which terminated successfully for the state last night. A defendant said he had been active in the campaigns of the President and governor and that La Guardia and others had been counselors for unions involved.

Exposures of new scandals are expected to be made in the next trial, which Prosecutor Dewey announced would deal with racketeering in the trucking industry. James Plumeri, alias Jimmy Doyle, and John [Blackie] Dioguardi were indicted last Tuesday for carrying on "a reign of terror" among truckers.

70 Are Indicted.

They maintained their lucrative dictatorship as heads of a trucking association, the indictment declared, "by assaults, stench bombings, damaging of trucks through placing of emery in their engines, assaults with guns, destruction of plate-glass store fronts and extortions."

This case will be followed by the trial of Arthur [Tootsie] Herbert, czar of the poultry trucking racket, and other officials on a charge of stealing $38,000 from their union treasury. Herbert's defense, as set forth in his demurrer, is that it is no crime to steal from a union.

Other rackets will follow in the course of time. Dewey has 70 persons under arrest for operating the policy or numbers game in Manhattan. He has started an investigation of rackets in electrical contracting business awarded by the city and is looking into the funeral herse, garment trucking and salvaged brick rackets. Previously Dewey had sent Charles [Lucky] Luciano, king of vice, away for a term of 30 to 50 years in the penitentiary.

The attitude of those associated with Dewey in the investigations however, is that they will do well if they "scratch the surface." They may send a few away to prison, but the rackets will continue to grow as long as they are protected by influential politicians.

50,000 Racketeers in N. Y.

"There are 50,000 racketeers in New York and you would need to build ten new prisons to hold them all," said one official.

In the early part of Dewey's investigation every step was revealed to the underworld. Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine today revealed that Detective Stephen di Rosa was suspected and had been demoted to the rank of patrolman. Di Rosa, cited five times for bravery, was trapped by giving false information to him alone.

Testimony in the trial proved that this information had been passed on to racketeers and action against Di Rosa followed. Commissioner Valentine denounced the former detective as a traitor, said he hoped to get enough evidence for an indictment and, failing that, would conduct a department trial.

Another investigation was pending into the payment of $2,750 in restaurant shakedown money to the law firm of Goldsmith and Felix. Frederick Goldsmith served an interim term as municipal judge, appointed by Mayor James Walker. Louis E. Felix is a Tammany chieftain.

Backed by Patronage Boss.

Witnesses testified that restaurant racketeers declared they were backed by James J. [Jimmie] Hines, Tammany leader and the New Deal's chief patronage dispenser in Manhattan. Hines was a bosom pal of Dutch Schultz, who was killed in a gangland assassination a year ago. The two were often seen together at prize fights and other sporting events.

The five union officials and two lawyers convicted on all counts of operating the two million dollars a year extortion ring among restaurant owners sat glumly in their cells at the Tombs today. Each faces a possible sentence of 300 years April 7.

RIOT IN BELGRADE AGAINST SERBIAN PACT WITH ITALY

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, March 26.—(AP)—A crowd of several hundred students and workers, shouting, "Down with Mussolini," smashed windows in a demonstration tonight against the new Jugo-Slav-Italian pact. The demonstrators concentrated in the central district of the city, but police quickly gained control of the situation.

Government spokesmen meanwhile emphasized that agreements reached between Italy and Jugo-Slavia would not disturb Jugo-Slavia's obligations to the Little Entente. The five year nonaggression political and economic pact was signed at Belgrade yesterday after conferences between Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy [son of Premier Mussolini of Italy] and Premier Milan Stoyadinovitch of Jugo-Slavia.

ICE ON CONTROL SURFACE BLAMED FOR AIR CRASH

Quiz Into Deaths of 13 at Pittsburgh Pushed.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 26.—[Special.]—An ice crust on the leading edge of the ailerons, disturbing the air flow over these control surfaces and thus robbing them of their effectiveness in maintaining lateral balance of the airplane, probably caused the crash of the Transcontinental and Western Air skyliner and the loss of 13 lives near Pittsburgh airport last night.

C. L. Fritz, eastern regional superintendent of TWA, tonight said a detailed study of the wreckage and information obtained from a number of witnesses who saw the big transport stall and spin into the ground led to this conclusion. The inquiry has not been completed and other factors may be discovered, he said.

First Time It Happened.

"Never before have we known ice to form on the leading edge of ailerons," said Fritz. "We found an inch to an inch and a quarter of ice adhering to the aileron after the crash. This ice would have spoiled the air flow over the aileron just as ice on the leading edge of a wing spoils the flow and reduces efficiency of a wing."

Fritz said that, early reports to the contrary, the company investigators believe that the skyliner stalled and began its final spin almost immediately after passing through a cloud layer and out into clear air at 1,200 feet above the ground. The ship was not low when the spin began and made three complete turns before it struck nose first.

Control Is Lost.

The stall, Fritz said, probably resulted from the loss of control when the pilot, F. L. Bohnet [one of those killed] slowed the ship down to the normal speed for an approach—this speed being about 110 miles an hour.

"Bohnet had let down his wheels which reduced his speed and undoubtedly there was ice on other parts of the ship that would have interfered with its efficiency. He was on course and making an approach that conformed with all regulations," said Fritz.

As the events are reconstructed the stalling speed of the airplane was considerably higher under the ice conditions than normally. Once in the stall, investigators believe, it would have been virtually impossible to right the ship, no matter how much altitude was available.

EVANSTON GIRL ARRIVES IN U. S. WITH 4 SNAKES

New York, March 26.—(AP)—Patricia Oliver of Evanston, Ill., returned today, relieved to announce her four cabin mates on the S. S. Raby Castle were in fine mettle again.

She had shared her quarters on the voyage from far off Malay with four moon snakes. The quartet—consigned to the Staten Island zoo here and of a species sacred to Malayans—caused her no little anxiety.

In midocean they became listless, plumb down in the mouth, not caring a whit, it seemed, if the zoo kept or not. Miss Oliver wirelessed New York for medical advice.

A post haste reply instructed her to put her traveling companions to bed each night with a hot water bottle and to feed them nothing but water. They started to perk up right away.

HOW ICE CAUSED AIR CRASH

Part of wing and aileron (lateral control surface) of TWA liner which crashed at Pittsburgh taking 13 lives. According to TWA officials, ice formed on the leading edge of the aileron (shown on the ground after being torn from its proper position, marked A).

The ice forming in the slot (indicated by arrow) between the wing and the aileron rendered the aileron useless. The ice did not lock the control but, instead, created bubbles of air which permitted the control to churn ineffectively. The pilot was therefore unable to use the controls to extricate the ship from the spinning nose dive into which it had fallen.

Ailerons provide control over rolling movements in airplanes.

LOMBARD CHILD'S MURDER INQUEST TO END TUESDAY

State's Attorney Russell W. Keeney of Du Page county said yesterday that on request of Mrs. George Loomis, mother of Roger Loomis, 5 years old, who was murdered in Lombard on Feb. 3, Dr. Paul Isherwood, Du Page county coroner, will close the inquest in the case at a final hearing on Tuesday. The hearing will be held at 11 a. m. in Elmhurst.

Mrs. Loomis requested that the case be closed so that she and her husband may leave their Lombard home for a rest, according to Keeney. He said that the Loomis family had received $1,000 insurance following the death of the boy, and will receive the second payment on two $500 double indemnity policies after the inquest is closed.

One Killed and Four Hurt in German Plane Crash

BERLIN, March 26.—(AP)—One person was killed and four injured when a German passenger plane, en route from Berlin to Cologne, crashed near Hanover tonight. It was attempting an emergency landing after developing motor trouble.

EDITOR IS SLAIN IN HOME; SON OF HIS RIVAL JAILED

Alturas, Cal., March 26.—[Special.]—A country town newspaper feud was blamed today for the death of Claude L. McCracken, 46, publisher of the mimeographed Modoc Daily Mail, who was shot five times in his home last night.

Harry French, 30, an employé of the state board of equalization and a son of McCracken's rival, was held in jail tonight on a first degree murder charge in the case. He surrendered voluntarily and was quoted as admitting he did the shooting. A coroner's jury blamed him for the shooting. His father, Bard French, is the publisher of the Alturas Weekly Plain Dealer, the older of the town's two papers.

McCracken's wife, a nurse at the hospital to which he was taken, was on duty when he was brought in on a stretcher. She was assigned to attend her dying husband and assisted surgeons in the operating room in a vain attempt to save his life.

Two hours before he died, McCracken reported the story of his own fatal shooting. He dictated a telegram to the San Francisco bureau of the Associated Press, of which he was the Alturas correspondent.

"Tonight about 6:30 Harry French shot Claude L. McCracken, editor of the Modoc Mail, with an automatic pistol," the dispatch read. "Condition of McCracken serious. [Signed] McCracken."

DIVORCED; WEDS YOUNG MOTHER OF HIS CHILD

Damon H. Holmes, 42 years old, an automobile salesman of La Grange, married the mother of his child yesterday. The ceremony was performed in the Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest by the Rev. Arthur C. Jevne, pastor of the Congregational church, Mundelein. The new Mrs. Holmes left the hospital for her own home in Mundelein after the ceremony. Holmes was divorced by his first wife, Estelle, in an unusual court hearing in Waukegan on March 19 so that he could marry the young mother. He testified against himself, admitting infidelity. The first Mrs. Holmes is now in Phoenix, Ariz., with one of her two sons.

DAVID'S LITTLE, BUT HE OFFERS SOME BIG IDEAS

Inventors to Hear About His Potato Masher, Etc.

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

David Suddeth, an 8 year old inventor from Enid, Okla., shoved back his curly hair and grinned yesterday as he bent over a biography of Benjamin Franklin in his hotel room at 830 South Michigan avenue. He was preparing the lecture he will deliver Monday morning when the National Inventors congress convenes in the Hotel La Salle.

His lecture will include a demonstration of two of his invention ideas —a potato masher that removes the peelings from boiled potatoes and mashes them in one operation, and a window washing gadget that cleans both sides of a pane at the same time.

Has Idols Besides Ideas.

While David is a fullfledged member of the inventors congress with the duty of submitting one new invention each six months, he displays a boyish awe of his idols, Edison and Franklin.

"Gee, mother," he exclaimed, pointing to a page on Franklin's life, "did you read this? That key and kite idea of Franklin's was swell. Have we got a key?"

Although she denies that her son is a genius, Mrs. Alma Suddeth, instructor in creative dance and drama at the University of Oklahoma, admits he is precocious. He fingered simple minuets on his child size piano when he was 2 years old. At 3 he thought up a small opera that astonished his teacher. When he was 4 he picked up a violin, took a few lessons and was ready for a recital. When he stood on the platform, his head bent, fingering the difficult measures, his teacher whispered, "unusual. Marvellous. Why he is a prodigy!"

Quick Step Through School.

Young David passed through the lower grades of school in quick time, and now reads books graded for 12 year olds.

Mrs. Suddeth believes that her son's precocity is due in part to the responsibilities he has assumed early in life. He has a fully equipped suite in the Suddeth home, furnished with small chairs, desks, and even pictures. Since he started to school three years ago he has complete charge of his part of the house.

JUDGE GRANTS WOMEN MERCY; CELLS FOR MEN

Kansas City, Mo., March 26.—[Special.]—Four women convicted of vote frauds were placed on probation in federal court today when their attorney pleaded for mercy inasmuch as the day was Good Friday. Two men also convicted as vote thieves were sentenced to three years each in Leavenworth penitentiary.

"In asking mercy for these defendants," said Attorney Ludwig Graves, "I want to call attention to the words of the man who said on this day many years ago: 'Forgive them, they know not what they do.'"

Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves granted the plea for mercy in behalf of the women—three Democrats and a Republican—but took occasion to point out the seriousness of their crime.

"When a woman assumes the high responsibility of being an election official, dealing with one of the most sacred rights of citizenship," the judge said, "I would think they would know the impropriety of making a mockery of an election."

The men sentenced were George Neeper and Frank Ditsch Jr., both Democratic precinct captains.

Heinz Schmidt, 17 years old, 10340 Avenue L, was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell by Judge J. M. Braude in the Boys' court yesterday. Schmidt was arrested shortly after he took a purse containing $9.50 from Mrs. Elizabeth Bork, 10254 Avenue N, on Jan. 6.

COURT PACKING PROTESTS POUR INTO OFFICE HERE

American citizens are vigorously protesting against the New Deal proposal to pack the Supreme court and are writing hundreds of letters to make their protests known, Floyd E. Thompson, chairman of the Chicago Citizens' Court Defense committee, declared yesterday. He said that in the few days since the committee has opened headquarters at 11 South La Salle street his offices have been swamped with messages objecting to the court maneuver.

GIRL, 14, WINS $11,000 CRASH INJURY VERDICT

A sealed jury verdict opened yesterday by Judge Oscar F. Nelson in the Superior court awarded $11,000 to Coula Askounis, 14 years old, 3834 West 63d street, for injuries incurred Aug. 10, 1935, when the automobile in which she was riding and that of Dr. Aaron Nieman, 550 Gladys avenue, collided at Garfield boulevard and Western avenue. The verdict contained a malice count under which Dr. Nieman may be jailed unless he pays the award.

GROUP ON FENCE ON COURT TALK OF COMPROMISE

Increase to 11 Justices Among Proposals.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—[Special.]—With the senate judiciary committee's hearing on President Roosevelt's bill to pack the Supreme court with six additional justices recessed until Tuesday, a group of about fifteen fence-sitting senators, who hold the balance of power between the administration and the opposition, are strongly urging a compromise which would permit them to go along with the President.

The most frequently suggested possibilities for a compromise are [1] a flat increase in the size of the Supreme court to eleven members, and [2] the proposal of Senator Carl Hatch [D., N. M.] to modify the President's bill so that not more than two additional judges could be appointed in any one year.

Calls for Flexible Court.

The proposal of Senator Hatch, an uncommitted member of the judiciary committee, also would provide for a flexible court with its membership varying from nine to fifteen justices. Under the President's bill an additional justice would be named for each of the six justices over 70 who refused to retire. The size of the court would be permanently increased to the extent of such additional appointments made.

Senator Hatch, however, proposes to modify the bill so that additional appointments, made upon the failure of justices past 70 to retire, would not become permanent increases. They would be offset by failure to fill an equal number of vacancies caused by subsequent retirements.

The opposition senators now are resigned to the belief that the President will get some kind of legislation that will enable him to accomplish his objective of changing the personnel of the present court. Even an increase of two justices, they point out, would be an administration victory, because it is reasonable to presume that some of the six members now past 70 will retire or die in the next year or two and the President would have vacancies to fill.

Senate Leaders Confident.

The administration leaders in the senate are confident that they will obtain at least a suitable compromise, if not the President's bill as such, and the opposition leaders are reduced to hoping that nothing worse than a compromise will result.

The opposition leaders, claiming at least 42 votes, believe they could prevent the President's bill as it stands from coming to a vote, but they have no illusions about being able to block an increase of, say two members, in the court. The administration pressure is too great and too many of the fence sitting senators are hoping for just such an opportunity to go along with the President and still not have to support a measure adding as many as six new justices.

The President, for one thing, is making judicious use of his patronage power to win over recalcitrant senators. Senators Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.] and William H. Dieterich [D., Ill.] have secured federal judgeship appointments and now are safe for the administration. Senators Elmer Thomas and Josh Lee, both Oklahoma Democrats, were believed to have been clinched for the administration with the appointment yesterday of Federal Judge Robert Lee Williams to the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals. Mr. Lee had previously been rewarded with a judgeship on the District bench.

Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.], one of the leaders of the senate opposition to Mr. Roosevelt's measure, today drew up a constitutional amendment which would accomplish the President's purpose to change the personnel of the Supreme court. It would provide for mandatory retirement of the justices at the age of 75, and, being applicable to the present court, would force five of the present members off the bench.

"I'm not offering this amendment for that reason, but it so happens that it would give the President what he wants," said Senator Connally. "If it's going to be done, I'd like to see it done in the honest way by giving the people a chance to vote on it."

Hearings Till Late April.

The judiciary committee's hearings are expected to run until late in April and the bill may not be reported by the committee before May. Debate in the senate then will require several weeks, so that final action on the court plan, including passage by the house, may not come before midsummer.

The opposition will continue with a slate of distinguished witnesses before the judiciary committee next week. On Tuesday Dr. Ervin Griswold, professor of constitutional law at Harvard, will be heard. The witness for Wednesday is Dorothy Thompson, prominent woman journalist, and she will be followed by Walter F. Dodd of Chicago and Dean Henry M. Bates of the Michigan Law school. Mr. Dodd, a noted constitutional authority, is a former professor of law at Yale and Illinois universities and of political science at the University of Chicago.

Rise Threatened

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—[Special.]—Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.], a leader in the fight against President Roosevelt's proposal to add six justices to the Supreme court, indicated today he might attempt to block the nomination of District Judge Robert Lee Williams of Oklahoma to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The senator said Judge Williams' letter to Attorney General Cummings pledging himself to retire on reaching the age of 70, less than two years from now, "raises the question of his qualifications."

The case was dismissed just before it was to have gone to a jury in the Superior court of Judge E. I. Frankhauser.

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

WITHOUT "WEASEL WORDS"

By CALEB

ON the imposing letterhead of a great corporation, a man recently addressed me, saying, in part:

"Permit me to congratulate you upon your response to the inquiry of C. A. R. published in the Tribune of March 16. Having done a 'hitch' in public-relations work myself, I have some idea of how difficult it is to respond to a direct inquiry without divulging the information requested. Your handling of this problem was masterly."

Then he implied we had worded our recent article on the stock ownership of our business so as to delude our correspondent, C. A. R., and to veil the stock ownership of our business.

"Dear Mr. K——:

"I am sorry a good friend and reader of my column could be so suspicious and skeptical a gentleman as you appear to be. I can ascribe it only to the fact that you must have at some time in your tender impressionable period of life been required by corporate employers to equivocate and use 'weasel words' in an effort to represent as being one way, things which really were another way.

"It makes me happy to be able to say I have never been asked or required to do that. Nor have I ever had the desire to do it—unless perhaps it be in connection with some of my personal affairs. But never those of my employer.

"I have worked from coast to coast and from Texas to Chicago, but I have never seen in any business such entire and universal disposition—from the chairman and president down—to proceed honestly in all things without thought of guile, as I have seen and do see in this business.

"You, I am afraid, are cynical—even iconoclastic. Therefore, none of the above will convince you. Nevertheless it gives me a certain satisfaction to write it. Many employes of large corporations could not sign their names to such paragraphs.

"Now as to the woodpile in which you think you have detected some Ethiopians.

"We are not concerned with trying to give the public any impression as to how little or how much stock the present management owns. We were concerned with having C. A. R.—and the public, if it is interested—know that the small group who have for many years controlled this business still control it and that there are no new major stockholders with the exception of the new chairman.

"Very truly yours,
"CALEB."

HALT CHRYSLER PARLEY; PEACE BELIEVED NEAR

Conferees to Meet Again at Lansing Today.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lansing, Mich., March 26.—[Special.]—Negotiators in the Chrysler labor controversy failed to reach an agreement which will permit resumption of operations as they ended the third day of conference with Gov. Frank Murphy tonight.

The conferees, including Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the corporation, and John L. Lewis, chief of the Committee for Industrial Organization, and their associates, were in the conference rooms eleven hours. At 9 p. m. they adjourned until tomorrow morning.

While Gov. Murphy, the only one of the principals to make any comment, said that "progress had been made" and that "not a great deal separates them," he added that the disputes "might be settled briefly and it might be several days."

Commends Both Sides.

"Both sides," Gov. Murphy said, "are earnestly striving to reach an agreement. I think both Mr. Lewis and Mr. Chrysler have to go away tomorrow night. This conference will continue until it is settled."

Although no official disclosure of the discussions at today's meeting was made, it is reported the corporation is holding out firmly against giving the United Automobile Workers of America sole bargaining power in the Detroit plants.

Lewis, heading the union delegation, is trying to obtain recognition on a basis which will preclude the corporation bargaining with any other group for a stated period, probably six months, it is said.

He is striving for this provision, according to reports, in order to prevent the corporation from entering into contracts with unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Lewis and his C. I. O. are bitter enemies of the federation since the split between Lewis and William Green, A. F. of L. president.

Lewis Yields to Pressure.

The eight Detroit plants of the Chrysler corporation have been closed since March 8. They were held until yesterday by 6,000 sitdown strikers of the U. A. W. The strikers evacuated the plants under an agreement reached Wednesday night which found Lewis yielding to the pressure of public opinion and the demand for obedience to court orders against illegal occupancy of the property.

Gov. Murphy said he has been in communication with officials of the Hudson Motor Car company in Detroit and the Reo Motor Car company here regarding the sitdown strikes which closed those companies' plants earlier this month. He said he looked for a quick settlement of these disputes. The same U. A. W. demand—sole bargaining power—is the chief issue in both cases.

Parts Plant Has Sitdown.

Homer Martin, U. A. W. president, who is a party to the negotiations here, declined to comment on a brief sitdown strike which closed the Chevrolet motor parts plant in Bay City, Mich., for two hours this morning. Approximately 500 of the 1,500 employés working at the time participated in the strike. Nonstrikers left when the sitdown began.

The strikers returned to work when an agreement was reached between union representatives and the plant management providing for opening of negotiations next Wednesday on the demand of the U. A. W. members for a wage rate of 80 cents an hour and the formation of a shop committee to adjust plant grievances.

DEMAND ACTION BY U. S. TO END SITDOWN TIDE

Washington, D. C., March 26.—(AP)—President Emeritus A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard and other Bostonians telegraphed to Vice President Garner and the senate a demand for immediate governmental action to end sitdown strikes. They said the strikes challenged "the supremacy of government itself."

"Armed insurrection—defiance of law, order, and duly elected authority—is spreading like wildfire," the telegram warned the senate.

"It is rapidly growing beyond control. What determined action by the governor of Michigan several weeks ago, or a few words of counsel by the President, would have ended summarily, now challenges the supremacy of government itself."

The telegram was signed by Lowell and Paul E. Fitzpatrick, Edmund W. Longley, M. L. Madden, James L. Richards, Bernard J. Rothwell, and Dr. David D. Schannell, all prominent Bostonians.

Garner made the telegram public and said he would lay it before the senate Monday.

STRONGARM MEN EJECT SITTERS; POLICE LOOK ON

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—The sitdown strike of nineteen employés in the plant of the Etched Products corporation, Long Island City, ended this afternoon when half a dozen strongarm men herded the strikers out of the building in the presence of high police officials who had refused to interfere.

The six huskies, including one man described as a former prizefighter, cleared the plant in short order.

Tailors Pile Up Garments in Unique Strike.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 26.—American and other residents of Paris who have been wondering for the last couple of weeks what was happening to their Easter pants, vests, and coats, which had been ordered and, in some cases, even had a first fitting, learned the fantastic truth today.

Thousands of suits and topcoats are piled high in utter disorder in the Bourse du Travail—the labor exchange. The garments were deposited there by striking tailors who, unable to take advantage of the leverage provided by the sitdown strike system since most of them are employed at piece work in their own homes—you can not very well stage a sitdown strike in your own home—had taken this means to make effective their wage and working week demands.

It's News to Labor Federation.

The Confederation Generale du Travail—the French federation of labor—disclaims any responsibility or even awareness of this extraordinary strike.

It is the newest trick of the labor movement in France, which is increasingly feeling its oats. It started ten months ago with sitdown strikes, which it is accused of having invented. Then it proceeded to threaten and even rough-house workers would not join. Just before the Easter vacation it put across a strike depriving Paris of its Bleues and Jaunes—Blues and Yellows—favorite brands of the French tobacco monopoly.

Even Garbage Men Strike.

Finally, as critics of Premier Leon Blum's Popular Front administration—in which the Confederation Generale du Travail is a powerful silent partner—remarked, it was allowed to get away with a garbage men's strike, leaving huge heaps of garbage in the streets, notably in the famous central markets, for the usual Easter vacation visitors from Great Britain and elsewhere to see and smell.

A tailors' strike, which heretofore it has been held could not be made really effective, now has become a fact also through diabolic ingenuity.

Henry J. Allen Predicts Collapse of Lewis' C.I.O.

The lack of machinery within its ranks for self control will cause John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization to collapse of its own weight, former Senator Henry J. Allen of Kansas told the weekly meeting of the Executives' club in the Sherman hotel yesterday. Mr. Allen pictured Lewis' organization as an example of political toadyism through which Lewis hopes to change from the field of labor to that of politics.

Personal Tax Rise

Graph showing increase in total personalty assessment in Evanston township, with decrease in number of persons billed for 1936.

Edward J. McCabe, chief deputy county assessor, announced yesterday the completion of the 1936 personal property tax assessment for the townships of North and Lake View where property owners will have lower bills than last year. The entire city personalty assessment will be completed April 10.

In Lake View the decrease amounts to 4 per cent, from $35,134,023 in 1935 to $30,787,742. There will be 31,922 tax bills. In the 1935 assessment there were 34,052. North town, which extends from the loop to Lake View, has a drop of 15.5 per cent. The 1936 assessment is $43,046,990, compared with $36,374,110. The number of tax bills also dropped from 20,830 to 16,339.

Completion of the Evanston assessment brings the total for the 30 country townships to $71,466,234 for 61,949 bills. In 1935 it was $73,081,273 for 179,734 items.

CLOSES FACTORY; SAYS EMPLOYERS HAVE RIGHTS, TOO

John E. Chalstrom closed his Joliet wallpaper mill at Joliet yesterday, paid off his 250 employés, and told them the plant will remain closed until the workers realize that an employer has rights as well as an employé.

Two weeks ago Chalstrom settled the second strike there in three months, recognizing an employés' union. On Tuesday 45 girls, employed in the sample room, were laid off because they were told their work is seasonal. The rest of the workers refused to cross the picket lines set up by the girls.

"Until the workers come to their senses and recognize that an employer also has some rights," Chalstrom declared, "this plant will remain closed if it takes all summer. Our plant will not be operated by hysteria. Life is too short and too complicated."

side of the courts that have held the sitdown unlawful.

On the other hand are the radical Democrats, including John L. Lewis and his following, who are demanding that he maintain his silence on the question and otherwise use the influence of his office in behalf of the strikers.

Cabinet Members Disagree.

Secretary of Labor Perkins asserted that the legality of the sitdown strike is yet to be determined and never amended the statement after the Michigan courts ruled it illegal. Secretary of Commerce Roper condemned the sitdown. Which one speaks for the President nobody knows, for he has not gone on record verbally.

By his actions, however, the President indicated tolerance of the sitdown tactic. He brought pressure to bear that caused the General Motors corporation to confer with Mr. Lewis while the strikers still occupied the plants. He brought no pressure to bear on Mr. Lewis to obtain evacuation of the plants. He did numerous things to harass the employers, but none to embarrass the Lewis organization.

Mr. Lewis openly demanded that the President discharge his debt to labor for his reelection by aiding the sitdown strikers. According to a widespread view, Mr. Roosevelt does not dare to defy the Lewis following.

Labor organizations raised $770,000 to reelect Mr. Roosevelt. Of this amount John Lewis raised about $600,000, the United Mine Workers, of which he is president, contributing nearly $500,000. The remainder came from organizations controled by Mr. Lewis. In addition the mine workers' union loaned the Democratic national committee $50,000. The note is still unpaid.

There is a marked divergence of opinion on what the federal government can do to stop sitdown strikes.

ON WAY TO CAPITAL

Aboard Presidential Special En Route to Washington, D. C., March 26.—[Special.]—In vigorous health after two weeks at his second home among the red clay hills of Georgia, President Roosevelt tonight was bound for Washington, where he will take a hand in the sitdown strike situation.

The President took his final swim in the pool of the infantile paralysis sanitarium this morning. Following the swim he directed the packing of his bags.

At two o'clock he drove by the Administration building to wave farewell to patients. A few minutes later he made his way up the ramp of his special train at the village of Warm Springs.

The guard of marines from Camp Roosevelt turned out in full dress uniform to line the roadway to the train. This guard was augmented by the detail of thirteen secret service men and CCC boys from the camp at Chipley, Ga.

MISS PERKINS ARGUES SIT STRIKES DO NOT 'IMPAIR' GOVERNMENT

Washington, D. C., March 26.—[Special.]—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins said tonight that sitdown strikes "do not reflect any widespread movement to defy the law or impair civil government or change conceptions of property rights."

Her expression was in a letter to Representative John McCormack [D., Mass.], in reply to his criticism on the house floor of Miss Perkins' views regarding sitdown strikes.

"I think," said Miss Perkins, "that it is the duty of the secretary of labor to point out the problems, purposes and intentions, as well as the conditions, of the wage earners of the United States of America, so far as these are understood or expressed.

"So I think it is my duty to say that careful inquiry indicates that the sitdown strikes do not reflect any widespread movement to defy the law or impair civil government or change current conceptions of property rights. The objectives are the usual objectives of unions in labor disputes."

MR. LEWIS CALLS THEM OUT.

The person most relieved by the action of John Lewis in calling the Chrysler strikers out of the company plants is probably Gov. Murphy. The governor and the courts of Michigan were being made to stand the brunt of the Washington policy, which definitly encouraged the seizure of property to bring owners to terms.

The idea that usage had already given a color of legality to the forcible ejection of an owner from his land and buildings had advocates in the federal government, but it had no standing in the Michigan courts, the orders of which were being disregarded in a manner such as to suggest that law had become a matter of individual selection in that state.

Gov. Murphy was moved by feelings to which a great deal of sympathy could be extended. He was in hope that he could avoid events which would have violent consequences and leave a bitter memory in the country. Illinois authorities in Cook and Lake counties were able to enforce respect for court orders without doing injury to the persons who had been inviting it by taking illegal possession.

Offenders had been encouraged to think they were acting within their rights and that the law was on their side. Much of the encouragement came from Washington, where Miss Perkins has treated the sitdown as an acceptable method of bringing about collective bargaining with such labor leaders as she and the department support. Mr. Roosevelt had said nothing to indicate that he disapproved and Mr. Lewis' organizers were the chief beneficiaries.

Gov. Murphy, who really sought office at the request of Mr. Roosevelt, was put out in front to carry the chief responsibility, whatever the consequences of the new strike methods might be. Recently he has indicated that he did not like it. He would be the chief sufferer if he permitted the state courts to be reduced to nullities and their orders disregarded at will, or if in enforcing the orders he became the central figure in some battles in which many law enforcers and strikers were killed.

Mr. Lewis himself must feel that the sitdown strike as a test of public opinion was beginning to show an unfavorable verdict. The justifications of it, although they had some expert assistance, were wearing thin and even the best friends of the administration at Washington were showing alarm. There was a reasonable suspicion that serious disorders were being incited in order that another crisis might be precipitated requiring governmental strong-arm methods to be excused on the plea of great national emergency and public necessity.

If the Michigan situation had gone completely out of hand and if what happened there spread to the other states, the country might have been prepared for almost any intervention by the Washington authorities. Disorders and dictatorships have a historic relationship.

WELCOME TO SPRING.

When the robins and the meadow larks came up from their winter resorts a couple of weeks ago we knew what was about to happen. The arrival of these birds is almost unfailing proof that a springlike winter is about to give way to a winterlike spring. The meadow lark keeps more to himself than the fellow in the red weskit, and evidences of the lark's discomfort and resentment are not to be seen merely by looking out ot the window. But no London club even at 9 o'clock in the evening could contain a more resentful Tory than the robin who looks at a snow bank and says, "A fine place for worms."

It seldom fails that as soon as a treacherous continuation of fair days or soft weather has beguiled the most susceptible feathered nit-wits than something from the arctic pays a call on these regions and fills the bird larders full of snow, slush, sleet, and ice. They asked for it and they got it. There is compensation, however, for people who have been lending a hand to the winter birds. The feeding attracts the migrants and a very lively scene is outside the windows where the ground has been cleared for the scattering of seeds, grain, and crums.

The winter birds make nothing unusual out of the spring snow. The purple finches, cardinals, and chickadees keep right on with their new spring songs. Nuthatches and woodpeckers have added the metallic brittleness to their notes which is somehow suggestive of running sap. With the many varieties of spring which nearly always usher in this delightful season we have had all kinds of experience and never find anything unexpected in the unexpected. Whatever happens, even two feet of snow on Easter, falls within a rational and a natural procedure.

A SELF-LIQUIDATING INVESTMENT.

Surgeon General Parran wasn't strictly accurate when he said the other day that Chicago "has not put up even one white chip" in the war on syphilis. He was substantially accurate, however, if he meant that the city and state have failed to make appropriations adequate to the task.

Free treatment, on a fairly comprehensive scale, is necessary if the disease is to be controled. Dr. Parran was right in maintaining that, while the federal government will help, provision of that treatment is primarily a community problem and responsibility for meeting it is primarily local.

From the standpoint of public finance alone, expenditures to fight syphilis are sound policy. If the state of Illinois will spend as much on a public health program against the disease as it is spending to care for the syphilitic insane, it will in time be freed from the latter expenditure. If Chicago will spend in fighting the disease a sum equal to present costs of public and private hospital care for victims of heart disease and other secondary manifestations traceable to syphilis, it will in time be relieved of paying those hospital costs.

It is not necessary to take account of social benefits, tremendous as they are, to justify appropriations for war on syphilis. By the most strict sort of accounting the reduction of direct appropriations for public care of victims of the disease make money wisely spent on its eradication a self-liquidating investment.

TO RESTORE MONOPOLY.

While other members of congress accumulate headaches in the consideration of weightier problems the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries is conducting hearings on a railway sponsored measure framed to enmesh water transportation in regulation. Mr. Eastman's championship of the proposed legislation gives the bill an administration tinge. It will be recalled that this member of the interstate commerce commission was formerly federal coördinator of transportation. With a lifetime of regulation and scarcely an hour of practical experience as a background, Mr. Eastman's sympathies could hardly be otherwise. He has become thoroughly steeped in the theory that no transportation industry should be allowed to stir without governmental permission. There is not a ripple of public interest in the proceedings.

Water transportation seldom offers completed service. Elevators, coal bridges, and other machinery are required to lift the freight to a wharf from which it may be conveyed to warehouses, storage piles, and the like. As the cost of these operations must be included in the ship's charges, a companion measure has been designed also to regulate these so-called "wharfinger" services. As the interstate commerce commission has already gained a foothold on track regulation, the government will, if the legislation is passed, take complete charge of the country's commerce at the door of the factory to release control at the point of consumption.

As stated, the railways are backing the measure, and with these additional facts the objective becomes crystal clear. Their private sidings honeycomb every industry, and if wharfinger activities can be "hog tied" by the restrictions of burocratic domination the good old days of railway monopoly will be restored in practice if not in theory. Highly standardized by the very nature of their machinery, and with a huge backlog of noncompetitive trafic, the railways can exist under regulation. Vulnerable at every point, the water lines cannot. A "tramp" expresses the acme of irregularity, and tramp service is the backbone of water carriage. Schedules and regularity are the essence of railroading.

The program is ill advised. The water carriers are in a precarious condition at the present time because they are undergoing a period of reconstruction that is long overdue. Admittedly the railways are subjected to many petty government restrictions, but they should adjust their program to seek amelioration of their own ills rather than to extend the dead hand of government control to another industry. To lapse into the long period of lethargy that existed during their former era of monopoly is neither good for them nor for the country.

THE NEWSPAPER: A NECESSITY.

The labor unions of Paris, when they staged their political strike the other day, left two types of business in operation. These were public utilities, aside from local transportation agencies, and the newspapers. Even in the midst of a semi-revolutionary demonstration it was recognized that sources of public information were a necessity to keep the demonstration within bounds.

We are a nation of moviegoers, yet the national attendance of 90,000,000 a week last year in motion picture houses, as reported by the Film Daily yearbook, was only a third of the total circulation of newspapers in a week. The figures make no allowance for the fact that most newspapers are read by two or more persons.

The newspaper, as a source of information, is a necessity in modern life. Again comparing it with the movies, newspaper circulation dropped 17 per cent during the depression; motion picture attendance 45 per cent. Newspapers are back to 90 per cent of their pre-depression circulation, taking the country as a whole. Movie attendance is back to 80 per cent.

Editorial of the Day

UNION LEADERSHIP'S RESPONSIBILITY.

[Milwaukee Journal.]

Homer Martin, militant leader of the C. I. O. organization in the Michigan automobile factories, was asked what attitude he was taking in the sitdown strikes at the Chrysler plants, where workers are defying a court order. He said:

"We did not put the men in the plants and we are not going to take them out. We are not going to vote on that question."

So there is the labor leadership on which the public, whose interests are gravely menaced, can now count in Detroit. Leadership dodges and runs away from any responsibility.

This same leadership put on the campaigns for membership. It worked the men up in the factories to the point where they were ready to take possession of property. And even now it parades in front of the factories with banners and bands to keep the men keyed up. But is it responsible? Will it decide? O, no, that is up to the workers. [If anybody goes to jail for defiance of court orders, it seems, it will be the workers.]

This kind of dodging by union labor leaders will not do. If organizers undertake to get men together and then speak for those men, these leaders will have to share the responsibility with the men. They cannot disavow the illegal acts of the workers but at the same time encourage them to continue these illegal acts.

Was there ever a clearer case of why there must be responsibility by union leadership? It is an object lesson for Wisconsin, which is now trying to frame its own labor law, and elsewhere.

MARY'S SON.

The clanging Easter-bells of Rome
Disturb the sacred air;
And factions plague Jerusalem,
There is no quiet there . . .

But rather go to Bethlehem
To greet the Easter morn;
The light is lovelier on hills
Where Mary's son was born.

And if in that sweet solitude
Should rise a thought of her,
Think not that moment of the cross
Or Jesus' sepulchre.

Yet should there be within the town
A bell's persistent ringing,
Or issuing from cloistered aisles
Young voices chanting, singing,

The hour would be more sacrosanct—
Dearer in Bethlehem,
Than making holiday in Rome,
Or in vexed Jerusalem.

Then journey down the ancient ways,
Where holy feet have trod:—
Incredible that such small hills
Have heard the voice of God!

ONE of our best anons discovered his favorite newspaper related that a very prom. American statesman was "pouring over a map and atlas." The question is: was it soothing syrup or red ink?

FITTIN' AND PROPER CLUB.

A special meeting will be held tonight in the fountain room to determine whether C. H. Wetter of Watertown, Wis., shall continue as head of the sprinkling department or be piped in as fire chief.

SIR: Why all the fuming about the pronunciation of hors d'œuvres? Simplicity itself. The first syllable is pronounced exactly as in hors de combat; the second portion is pronounced d'œuvres, as in chef d'œuvres. Easy, n'est ce pas? Yours for better radishes. Lemuel B.

WAR WHOOP FOR WARRENVILLE.

As I contemplate the articles written by sublimestone souls about Warrenville, I arise hastily to subvene in behalf of our beautiful suburb. What might be the attraction to bring such Whinine Willies to a town like this? Can it be the cheap rent and low taxes? Anyway, what we need to build our community building and pave our streets is more pioneer spirit. If the bargain hunters can't take it, why not make more room and purer air for the good residents? Well Pleased.

THRICE WELCOME.

"The convention reëlected Daniel Belse, Hoopeston delegate, as chairman."—Downstate news item.

All greetings to this useful soul;
This valued Mr. Belse.

THE FOREST OF OLD.

Only a fringe of scrawny saplings survives now along untillable hillsides. Long ago the forests we used to know were destroyed, and not even a stump remains as a melancholy monument to their former glory. And the fertility is slowly ebbing from the fields and there are floods and drouths. . . . There used to be huge oaks, six feet across their trunks and taller than the Methodist church steeple. White oaks, red oaks, black oaks, and burr and pin oaks; and swarthy shellbark hickories, and elms and poplars and maples; and mottled sycamores along the creek, and drooping willows. At the feet of the big trees were dwarfish sassafras bushes and red buds and black haws that would never grow up; and, clustered here and there, little jungles of hazel brush. Wild birds came to the woods in April and wild flowers sprang from the leafy loam. We were ignorant of the proper names of most of them, but we knew their habits well. Red birds that were cardinals and presided in the lofty cathedrals of trees; black-winged red birds, red-winged black birds; brown-robed thrushes that led the choir; ground robins and whippoorwills that nested low; uncanny owls; hoodlum hawks and crows; and buzzards that were so beautiful when soaring in the sky and so abominable in their habits and their close-up appearance.

The first flowers we gathered on a warm Sunday afternoon were "turkey peas" [spring beauties to you], dutchmen's breeches and violets, blue, yellow, and white. Next Sunday the sweet williams and buttercups would put on their blue and gold, May apples would raise their green umbrellas and jack in the pulpit offer an orison from his sanctuary in the elm tree's shade. . . . May came and spread a canopy of leaves overhead that shut out the light of the sun, or softened it into a verdant vagueness, such as prevails at the bottom of the sea. And soon the balmy serenity of summer ruled the woods. Eolus.

EASTER PARADE.

The avenue is bright with flowers
That jut from crowns of Easter hats,
With ravishing new gowns, chic suits,
With shiny shoes and fresh gray spats.

The sun is high, the sky is blue,
But Winter breathes from off the lake.
The avenue is thick with folk

Beulah Frances Holland.

SHADE OF INFLECTION.

Sir: On the train this morning, coming down through the standard pre-Easter blizzard, I stood next to a most wholesome looking little lass who was holding a book with the title toward me. What did I do but read it aloud with the emphasis on the wrong word—"How to Make Friends." And the look I got. Another lost opportunity.

Wag.

Mooney Aldrich Fredricks Toale.

SIR: A lot of people are making cracks about the slick hair of the gigolos, but only a slight slurring of the name will make you understand they got that way under the expert manipulations of Sam Barrafato, the Sheridan road hair stylist. F. A. S.

COVERAGE.

One of the larger emporiums of our centennial city advertised a lounging robe, the only one of its kind in the entire world, for only $1,000. The girl friend hinted that this was grand coverage. But right now I could be covered with 1,000 pennies. In fact, I'd feel like a cat in a catnip bed if I could roll around in that many coppers.

WINTER doesn't seem to understand he should act his age and stay out of the rumble seat.

THE CHILD WHO WON'T EAT.

EVERY mother at some time or other has become concerned over Willie's or Johnny's loss of appetite and physicians are consulted more often for anorexia [no desire for food] than for any other condition pertaining to childhood. It is a common complaint—one that may present puzzling aspects.

Most of these noneaters are pale, thin, and anemic. Some are "bundles of nerves" and—far from lacking energy—many of them are never still—jumping, running, and chattering constantly.

The first thing to consider, of course, is the diet. What has the child been receiving? What does he like? Nine times out of ten, if every article of food is listed and its character and amount investigated, it will be found that during each twenty-four hours entirely too high a proportion of starches and sugars is taken. To some extent milk is a culprit. In other words, these boys and girls are endeavoring to exist on a diet which is not balanced, which does not contain the amount of protein needed for growth and the building of blood. Sometimes eliminating milk will be followed by improvement, but far more adjustment than this is generally needed.

Here is a suggested diet which has been helpful:

BREAKFAST—One egg, 2 strips of bacon, ½ slice rye bread and butter, stewed fruit, a ripe banana, and orange juice.

DINNER—Soup of some sort [not creamed], meat, green vegetables [no potatoes], gelatin, and stewed fruit.

SUPPER—Soup, vegetables [leftovers from the noon meal], rye bread and butter, gelatin, a well ripened banana, and stewed fruit or fruit salad.

The food elements omitted are: milk, cereals, potatoes, puddings, sweets, desserts of all sorts, and bread, except that made from rye flour. Only enough sugar is used to make stewed fruits palatable.

At first the change may be so abrupt that the patient will maintain his refusal to eat and there may be some loss of weight—a pound or two—during the first week. But if left alone, if coaxing is not indulged in, usually within a day or so he will recognize the appetizing character of the food offered. The meal period should be quiet and restful with relatively little conversation. Youngsters are quick to recognize excess sympathy and overanxiety on the part of parents.

The foregoing regimen has been tried so many times and has been found so effective that within two weeks, as a rule, the child will show for the first time in many months symptoms of hunger; in fact, he may ask for more. Now and then one of these youngsters will waken earlier than usual, eager for breakfast. This is a highly desirable and natural situation since the evening meal is the lightest of the day and is, therefore, more conducive to sleep. If it occurs regularly, however, the evening menu may be augmented with larger helpings or even a greater variety.

Considerable watchfulness will be required to prevent the child's indulging in his former craving for starches and sugars. Cookies and sugar bread obtained from well-meaning neighbors may defeat the experiment. As more food is demanded, carbohydrates may be added sparingly. A striking relapse to the not-hungry stage will ensue with resumption of starch feedings.

When milk is restricted the system is deprived of considerable calcium and it may be necessary to supply this substance in the form of calcium gluconate. A teaspoonful of a 10 per cent solution with each meal will be adequate.

Not long ago I received a letter from a mother who described her offspring's lack of appetite, stating that her physician had suggested small doses of a bitter tonic. While this may have the effect of a temporary "whip," in the long run the result is not desirable. The special diet alone is usually all that is required.

HYPERTENSION.

J. D. writes: What is hypertensive heart disease? Can it be corrected? What diet is prescribed for this ailment?

REPLY.

High blood pressure is frequently accompanied by heart trouble. Constriction of the tiny arteries may be the immediate cause of hypertension, but the determining origin of such spasms is still unsolved. Treatment is directed toward the individual rather than toward the disease. Rest—both physical and mental—is important and fatigue must be avoided. Properly regulated exercise within the limits of the power of the heart is beneficial. A reduction in the amount of food taken lessens the burden on the circulation, but there need be no curtailment of any special element in the dietary. Personal habits require readjustments, especially in relation to alcoholic drinks and tobacco. Foci of infection should be removed if found and as the general health of the patient permits. Physiotherapy produces a sedative effect. Drugs have no value. The condition cannot be cured but it can be controled, so that the patient can carry on comfortably and efficiently.

CANCER.

H. S. writes:
1. What is the cause of cancer?
2. What are the symptoms?

REPLY.

1. The cause is still unknown. Some of the precipitating influences are: Injury [especially constant irritation of moles, warts, sores, etc.]; age [cancer is a disease of old age]; sex [cancer is commoner in females than in males]; and occupation—those who work with irritating substances such as paraffin, tar, etc., over a long period of time are sometimes more susceptible to cancer of the skin.

2. The symptoms vary according to the organ affected. Generally speaking, it is well to be suspicious of any abnormality such as changes in moles and warts, any local growth, or bleeding from internal organs.

SERIOUS SYMPTOMS.

M. S. K. writes: What can be done to stop a steady ringing in the ears, black spots before the eyes, and the constant formation of a coat of mucus in the eyes?

REPLY.

You are in need of medical care as your symptoms are significant of some trouble with both the circulation and the function of elimination. Ringing in the ears is probably related to your general condition.

RHINITIS.

R. M. L. writes: What is the remedy for dark crusts inside the nose?

REPLY.

Crusts in the nose are the result of dried secretions caused by inflammation of the mucous membrane. Treatment should be directed toward the cause of the irritation. Vaseline or liquid albolene applied locally will soften the crusts.

SCOTS WHA HAE A RACKET.

Chicago, March 23.—There is nothing new under the sun, but the sun didn't shine yesterday, so we didn't know the old Scotch racket wasn't new, and that a good friend of ours had been duped thirteen years ago in the selfsame manner. A quiet, retiring, middle-aged woman with a Scotch burr came into our offices with lace luncheon and table cloths to sell which were made in Edinburgh, Scotland, at the Lady Gordon school and brought to this country to sell. The cloths were all hand made on a wee pillow with eighty pins and linen thread spun from their very own flax. In fact, the one I so gullibly purchased had won for my foreign friend the gold medal at the Edinburgh fair last year.

After fifteen minutes of deciding and counter-deciding whether we really wanted to own a luncheon cloth and help this lady back to her native country, since she lacked sufficient funds to take her, and her sweet looking daughter of about 20, home, we—two of us—succumbed to the tune of $13 for two cotton lace machine made luncheon cloths which we proudly displayed at home only to be told the truth that we had been taken for a ride.

This is our story. May it be of benefit to some unsuspecting soft-hearted person who like ourselves really cannot afford to give away $13 for dishonesty to live in luxury. Don't let the Scotch burr fool ye! Margaret Lehmann.

A STRAW MAN ATTACKED.

Chicago, March 24.—Three propositions have recently been expounded in various articles in The Tribune: That the reorganization of the Supreme court would give dictatorial power to the President; that it is ridiculous to assert that recent decisions by the Supreme court are one of the causes of the existing labor troubles, and that it is the duty of the President to intervene and settle these labor troubles.

Is it not true, though, that the gist of the Supreme court decisions about the NRA, the New York state minimum wage law, the Guffey coal act, etc., is, that all business in the U. S. A., with certain specified exceptions [railroads, shipping, etc.], is strictly a state matter, completely out of the sphere of federal activity? Is it not true that these decisions have effectively stripped the federal government and thereby the President of all power to intervene in labor questions, these being business matters and therefore under the sole jurisdiction of the several states? If you believe that the most effective way to end the labor difficulties is by presidential intervention, have not, in that case, the decisions by the Supreme court blocked just that way and thereby helped to cause the present chaos?

If the President should intervene, in spite of the Supreme court, would not that mean that he had assumed dictatorial power and overridden his own judiciary.

Your logical thinking, then, seems to work this way: If the President overrides the Supreme court, assumes dictatorial power and intervenes in the labor situation, then he is not a dictator, but if the congress, by reorganizing the Supreme court, should cause the power to intervene in labor questions to be given to the President in a legal and constitutional way, then he becomes a dictator.

Gentlemen, I think your logic is slightly twisted. Sven Hedin.

AT THE AIRPORT.

Chicago, March 24.—The writer of the article appearing in the Voice of the People, March 23, 1937, signed "Private Flyer," was evidently misinformed about the flying rules and regulations at the Chicago Municipal airport.

Our regulations provide that all planes carrying passengers for hire from the airport shall be equipped with two-way radio communication sets. This rule does not apply to private flyers, although, in the interest of safety, as trafic increases it will become necessary to apply this rule to all airplanes operating from the Municipal airport.

Walter Wright.
Superintendent of Parks, Recreation and Aviation.

AS FOR INSTANCE?

Chicago, March 23.—It seems to be the policy of your paper to print pictures of beautiful women in your Sunday picture section. How about some of good looking men? Give us girls something to thrill over. D. P.

THIS ERA.

Chicago, March 20.—History, no doubt, will refer to it as the era of F. D. R., the era of floods, drouths, and riots.

Maurice Lazare.

From the Tribune's Columns

20 Years Ago Today

MARCH 27, 1917.

WASHINGTON.—Democratic house leaders conferred with Secretary of State Lansing on the form of the prospective resolution of congress declaring a state of war with Germany, on the early enactment of espionage legislation, and on the creation of a great secret service to guard against the operations of German plotters.

WAR STEPS.

President Wilson authorizes increase in the enlisted strength of marine corps to 17,400 men; makes appeal to boys of nation through press.

Navy department begins campaign for 25,000 men to raise enlisted strength to war basis of 87,000.

President calls many more militia to federal service, including three Illinois regiments; probably will summon whole Guard soon.

Government plans great enlistment advertising crusade.

Conferences will be held by Secretary Daniels with shipbuilders to speed up construction.

United States, in refusing to reaffirm or extend agreements of 1798 and 1828, calls Germany "clear violator" of pacts and says it "disregards canons of international courtesy" by its sea acts.

Bipartisan organization of lower house of congress seems probable; Republican Leader Mann willing to forgo speakership in interest of harmony.

CHICAGO.—Chicago was stirred by the enthusiasm of the boys of the 1st regiment, Illinois National Guard, in responding to the mobilization order of the President. The guardsmen hurried to the armory in Michigan avenue to lay aside their civilian raiment and don the khaki, although it was realized that the call was merely for guard duty and not for actual war.

WASHINGTON. — The National Committee of Patriotic and Defense Societies, representing twenty-eight important organizations, announced that it had effected a working agreement with the National Defense council to aid recruiting and industrial mobilization, and issued an appeal to the country for a unification of preparedness movements.

BERLIN.—The climax in the relations with the United States is seen to be at hand even by the most optimistic German eyes, and the feeling is that warlike developments have gained such momentum that nothing short of a miracle can stave off conflict.

FRATERNAL INSURANCE.

Chicago, March 12.—[Legal Friend of People.]—A, in 1903, joined a fraternal insurance organization. In 1922 this organization raised the rate of payments 100%, causing A to stop paying his monthly dues. In 1936 A died.

1. Can B collect the [2] money paid in from 1903 to 1922? C claims the contract made in 1903 still holds good.

3. Can an organization wait until a member reaches an age where a change in insurance companies would cause payments to be excessive to charge twice the amount originally agreed to, or must this be specified at the time of initiation?

4. C claims that the insurance company must pay entire amount paid in at time of the raise in rates or pay insurance on the amount paid in at the death of its members. Is that right?

E. G

1. We assume that B is either the only heir or is executor or administrator of the estate, so as to be entitled to collect anything that would be coming.

2. The right to recover the payments would depend on the agreement under which they were made. If they merely paid for the current insurance protection which was enjoyed then no recovery would be in order. If, in addition to this protection element, the payments included a contribution to a reserve then there might be a possibility of collecting a surrender value, but this does not seem likely.

3. There is no such absolute rule.

4. In case No. 37637, decided March 29, 1935, our Appellate court held that in absence of an express provision reserving to the society the right to change the insurance contract, the society had no such right. On the other hand, where the contract is expressly subject to the by-laws, it can, of course, be changed. You should bear in mind that in many cases the change is justified by the fact that the initial payments were not on a sound actuarial basis; in other words, were not large enough to carry the risk. If this last mentioned factor enters into a large enough proportion of the insurance contracts it may mean that the society must default if it cannot increase the assessments.

CROWDS WORSHIP AT GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES IN CITY

Jews Start Observance of the Passover.

Chicago's Christian churches were crowded with worshipers yesterday—Good Friday—in commemoration of the sacrifice of their Savior on the cross. Last night Jewish homes and synagogues began their Passover feasts celebrating spiritual emancipation and ideals of human liberty. The Passover lasts for eight days, during which no leavened bread is eaten.

The Good Friday crowds prompted both Catholic and Protestant clergymen last night to predict banner attendance at tomorrow's Easter services. The weatherman also added an encouraging note. According to Forecaster J. R. Lloyd, tomorrow will be generally fair, and not quite so cold.

All Schools Are Closed.

All public and parochial schools were closed yesterday, permitting thousands of children to attend Good Friday services. Many were seen at downtown tre ore [three hour] services. These services, between 12 noon and 3 p. m., symbolized the time of Christ's agony on the cross.

They were held at the Erlanger theater under auspices of the People's church, at the Grand Opera house under direction of the Christian Business Men's committee, at the Chicago Temple under auspices of the Church federation, and at the Harris theater under sponsorship of the Episcopal Church club. Bishop George Craig Stewart spoke at the Harris theater services. All told, more than 12,000 persons attended these observances.

One of the major Easter observances will be the sunrise service in Soldiers' field tomorrow morning. Harry G. Saulnier, chairman of the service, said there would be room to park 7,000 cars east of the field and on Northerly island and near the Field museum. Trafic Engineer Otto K. Jelinek of the Chicago Park district, also said that parking space for buses had been arranged in Columbus drive at 16th street. A 110 foot Easter cross, completed yesterday, will be the focus of the service.

The Salvation army also announced that sunrise services would be held at each of its four citadels.

Templars Will March.

Following the custom of twenty-five years, St. Bernard commandery of the Knights of Templar will march from lodge rooms at 912 North La Salle street to St. James Episcopal church, Wabash avenue and Huron street, for Easter services.

A customary feature of Easter will be the fashion parades from the city's larger churches. An old fashioned note will be added by four mannequins in a 1900 model automobile who will be a part of the Jubilee Easter parade of the Chicago Charter Centennial celebration.

Flowers are expected to be seen in more than usual quantities, since the demand has been heavy. Last night a United Air Lines plane from San Francisco brought in a full load of Easter flowers, including 10,000 gardenias.

A. A. BUCHLER DIES SUDDENLY.

Adolph A. Buchler, 48 years old, 1016 North Euclid avenue, Oak Park, a brewmaster, died suddenly of a heart attack in his home yesterday.

Held in Aimee Case

Mrs. Lydia Swenson, held on charge of writing letter demanding $200 from Aimee Semple McPherson.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Lydia Mary Swenson, 43 years old, wife of a retired Duluth, Minn., lumber dealer, today was held under $25,000 bail in connection with police charges of attempting extortion against the Rev. Aimee Semple McPherson. Mrs. Swenson confessed, police said, that she had written a note received Thursday by Mrs. McPherson in which $200 was demanded.

Mrs. Swenson told the police, according to their report, that "Mrs. McPherson gets money from other people and I decided to get money from her." She also said she needed the $200 "for a down payment on an automobile."

ROME OBSERVES AGE OLD RITES ON GOOD FRIDAY

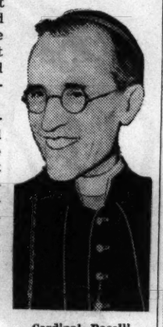
VATICAN CITY, March 26.—(AP)—Mourning services in the Sistine chapel—without the accustomed presence of Pope Pius—tonight climaxed Good Friday observances.



Cardinal Pacelli.

Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, papal secretary of state and high priest of St. Peter's cathedral, conducted the ceremonies in the presence of cardinals of the Curia, members of the diplomatic corps and high church dignitaries.

Heeding the advice of his physicians, the aged holy father heard mass this morning in the privacy of his apartments.

Vatican canons said a throng of at least 50,000 faithful, including 20,000 tourists, was expected in St. Peter's courtyard Sunday in the hope of seeing the Pope.

He plans to attend the pontifical mass inside the cathedral, and then give his blessing from the loggia.

The Vatican announced that the papal encyclical on Mexico would be published on Saturday. It was said to be unlikely to touch on controversial subjects and instead would be a direct appeal to the Mexican people to return to full practice of the Catholic faith.

CORONATION COST OF $2,270,000 IS BRITISH RECORD

$925,000 Spent in 1911 to Crown George V.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 26.—The coronation of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain in May will cost the treasury $2,270,000, a far greater sum than has been spent on any previous coronation.

In the expense estimates just published it is disclosed that $2,620,000 will be required altogether, but toward this $350,000 will be realized from the sale of seats along the route of the procession.

The last five coronations have cost:

| | |
|---|---|
| George IV. [1821] | $1,191,190 |
| William IV. [1831] | 211,490 |
| Victoria [1838] | 347,105 |
| Edward VII. [1902] | 965,000 |
| George V. [1911] | 925,000 |

Stands Are Greatest Factor.

Comparing the estimates with those for the coronation of King George V., the greatest part of the increased cost is in the estimate of the office of works for the preparation of Westminster abbey and annex and the erection of stands along the route. The treasury allowance for stands is $700,000.

An official of the department said: "There are a number of reasons for the increased cost. First, there is the advance in the cost of materials and labor since 1911. Then there is work for this coronation which has never been done before.

Broadcasting Adds to Cost.

"Increasing the accommodations inside the abbey to nearly 8,000 seats, about 1,000 more than in 1911, makes the work more intricate and adds to the cost considerably.

"Sound amplification and broadcasting arrangements are two other new items to be paid for by the office of works.

"Decorations along the route of the procession, floodlighting, and the decoration of other public buildings in London and thousands of government offices in the provinces, such as postoffices and inland revenue offices, have never been undertaken before by the office of works."

$102,500 for India Office.

Other detailed estimates for this year's coronation, compared with the costs in 1911, are:

| | 1937. | 1911. |
|---|---|---|
| His majesty's household, including entertainment of royal and other guests | $500,000 | $450,000 |
| Earl marshal's office | 20,000 | 17,500 |
| Dominions and colonial offices | 20,000 | 75,000 |
| India office | 102,500 | 188,000 |
| Miscellaneous | 70,000 | 29,500 |

The total cost of the coronation is divided so that $760,000 is borne in the present financial year and $1,860,000 in the next financial year. The $350,000 obtained from the sale of seats will be deducted from next year's estimate.

DE LUXE TRAINS PERILED BY BOYS SEEKING THRILLS

De Kalb, Ill., March 26.—[Special.]—Two high school boys, each 16 years old, were arraigned in police court today on charges of malicious mischief growing out of their yerning for a thrill. They sought the thrill, it developed, by attempting to interfere with train movements on the North Western right of way. The attempts could have wrecked trains, it was charged.

The boys were Allan Chapman and Charles E. Parks. They were arrested Monday. They said they started out on their thrill quest nearly six weeks ago by cutting the block signal wires just before de luxe trains were due to enter the station. This was done two or three times, but each time the interference was detected on the signal board in the station. Once the boys placed a tie on the tracks, but this, too, was discovered.

"The boys were motivated by pure deviltry and nothing else," said Sherif O. N. Larson.

The Chapman boy was held to the grand jury in bonds of $2,000 and the Parks boy's case was continued for ten days. Both were taken to the jail in Sycamore.

10 WOMEN ATTAIN FAME IN GERMAN ART, INDUSTRY

But Home Life Is the Ideal, Nazis Contend.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 26.—Back to the home is the Nazi rule for women. To become a wife and mother is presented as the ideal of the German girl. However, when talent does show itself, it should not be repressed, according to the Illustrierter Beobachter, which in a late issue prints the pictures of ten women who have won recognition in their fields and are declared to be the only women so far to have attained it.

Five of them are ective in the artistic world and the others are skilled in some sort of industry. In the first group are a saxophone soloist, a superintendent of an open air theater, a conductor of regular concerts in the Berlin Philharmonic orchestra, a professor of old music in Berlin, and a film director.

Blond Tells How to Win.

Else Rassow directs an open air theater.

The Hungarian violinist, Marta Linz, has the honor of being one of the very few women occasionally conducting the Berlin Philharmonic orchestra or the Hungarian orchestra in Berlin.

Eta Harich-Schneider is the only German woman professor of old music. She teaches in the Berlin State Academic Music institute, gives special training classes for the harpsichord, and lectures on the technique of the oldest key instruments.

Then in the industrial world five other women have won official recognition. Sturdy Hanna Reitsch from Hirschberg in Silesia is Germany's only regularly employed woman airplane pilot.

Knows About Motors.

With sleeves rolled up to her elbows she knows how to test a motor.

From the old university town of Tuebingen comes Gertrud Meier-Weiss, the only locksmith master in Germany.

Charlotte Poeschke, too, followed her father's profession. She is a potter in Cottbus, and has not a single rival among all the women in Germany. She looks like a boy in her potter's outfit, round cap on the back of her head, blue potter's shirt.

Erna Dietrich is carrying on a hunyear old tradition of her family. Although she trained to enter welfare work, she changed to ivory cutting upon the death of her father and is now the only woman ivory cutter master in her country. Pleasant and efficient, she wears white aprons and handles her machines with skilled hands.

Romance and work were combined by Luise Kaske in Zerpenschleuse in the Mark. She mastered the profession of electric installation and auto mechanics, and then she married her teacher.

YOUNGHUSBAND 4TH WIFE GETS $125 A WEEK

Court Tells Her She Must Get Along on It.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

With a stern admonition that she must expect to get along on that amount and meet every one of her bills out of it, Judge Donald S. McKinlay of the Superior court yesterday awarded $125 a week temporary alimony to Mrs. Lillian Hawes Carter Younghusband. Mrs. Younghusband, 30 years old, a small, pretty brunette, smiled happily, displaying her temporary tooth in anticipatory delight over the temporary alimony, which she will receive pending the outcome of her divorce suit. She had testified her husband had knocked out the original tooth. She left the court with her attorney, Samuel A. Rinella, who also was beaming.

Mrs. Lillian Younghusband.

Husband There with Secretary.

Her husband, J. Leslie Younghusband, 41 years old and a veteran of marriage—this being his fourth wife—turned for consolation to a large red-haired woman in a mink coat, his secretary, Miss Katharine Minodue, who was seated in the front row. Mrs. Younghusband complained from the witness stand that he paid his secretary $175 a week.

Thus Mr. Younghusband, the lipstick king, who founded two lipstick companies and others dealing in cosmetics, was left in the following predicament with regard to his financial-domestic affairs:

He is paying alimony to two wives, he already has paid up with another, one breach of promise suit against him was settled out of court, and an effort is being made to revive another one.

His Marital Career.

Mr. Younghusband's career as a husband may be summarized thus:

1. Mrs. Georgia Younghusband, his first wife. She married him in 1919 and died in 1927. Two daughters by that marriage have lived with him since then and are in boarding school here. He asked to keep his 12 room apartment and its $10,000 worth of furniture at 233 East Walton place for the children and himself, but Judge McKinlay ruled that the fourth Mrs. Younghusband could remain there if she paid the rent.

2. Mrs. Shirley B. Younghusband, second wife. She divorced him in Reno in 1931 after a year and a half of marriage. She received $3,000 in cash and was allowed to keep a roadster and her jewels and clothes. She is now married again.

3. Mrs. Ruth H. Younghusband, the third wife. She won a divorce in Reno in 1935 after two years of marriage. She was awarded $60 a week alimony, which after three years will be reduced to $25 a week support money for their daughter, 2 years old. She lives in St. Paul.

4. Mrs. Lillian Younghusband, the fourth wife. In addition to the $125 weekly she got yesterday this Mrs. Younghusband was awarded $500 for attorney fees and $200 for court costs. She married Mr. Younghusband last June 20 at Crown Point, eloping three hours after they met at a tea-dance in the Drake hotel.

Two Minor Dilemmas.

In addition to his marriages, Mr. Younghusband became involved in two minor dilemmas:

A. Last March 4 a $100,000 damage suit brought against him in St. Petersburg, Fla., where he has a winter home, by Helen Louise Benjamin, a nurse, was settled out of court, it was announced. Attorney Adelor J. Petit, counsel for Mr. Younghusband, said this cost him appreciably nothing.

B. In December, 1933, Miss Alyce Strand of 8449 Oglesby avenue, a former employé, sued Mr. Younghusband for $100,000, charging breach of promise. This case was dismissed last October, said Attorney Petit, but Miss Strand's counsel has a motion for reinstatement pending.

In ruling on the temporary alimony for the fourth Mrs. Younghusband yesterday, Judge McKinlay expressed the hope that the hearing on her divorce bill, in which she charges cruelty, will be soon.

"She says she has a sentimental regard for the furniture," the judge said. "She doesn't need twelve rooms but I will let her keep the home intact in the event there might be a reconciliation.

"Now to take up the question of the lady's needs. I think some of her estimates high. She wants $250 or $300 a month for groceries. I eat all right and my family does and we don't spend that.

"This man's income is fairly large. The poor people who come into this court would have less domestic trouble if they had more money, and the rich, if they had less money, would have less trouble. I'm not a preacher. My father was a carpenter. Still, I've nothing against preachers."

Mrs. Younghusband, trim in a smart black dress and peaked fur-trimmed black hat, tripped up to the bar to stand with the half dozen lawyers in the case.

"She doesn't need a man butling around," said the judge, a reference to Mrs. Younghusband's request for a butler. "She may need a maid. She won't need much clothing in the next couple of months. I think $125 a week will be plenty."

Largest Alimony in Years.

No alimony in that amount has been awarded in a contested case in either the Circuit or Superior courts in recent years, observers said.

Mr. Younghusband testified yesterday he never told his wife he made $600 a day, as she claimed, and declared that their expenses when living together were no more than $750 a month, outside of $500 a month for his wife's clothes.

In an effort to show that Mrs. Younghusband was not long accustomed to life on a grand scale, Attorney Franklin Overmyer asked if he knew what rent she had paid before she married him.

"Ninety dollars," he said, smiling. "She told me it was paid by a man who had supported her for six years—she told me that the morning after we were married. He also paid for her child's schooling and gave her $25 a week allowance and three cars."

Gets $117,000 Dividends.

Mr. Younghusband said his salary from the Associated Distributors, Inc., virtually all the stock of which he said he owned, was $20,000 a year. He revealed, however, that in the last three or four years he has drawn about $117,000 in dividends from the company. He denied he received a million dollars when he merged his interests in the Kiss-Proof company, makers of lipstick, in 1929.

He discounted the value Mrs. Younghusband had placed on his homes in Florida and Canada, his horses, and a yacht. He said the latter was only a $600 sailboat.

HELD TO JURY AFTER HOLDUP.

Alvin Scheib, 26 years old, an ex-convict of Rock Island, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $15,000 by Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court yesterday on a charge of robbery with a gun.

ACTOR'S ESTRANGED WIFE TIES UP HIS $350 WEEKLY SALARY

Judge Donald S. McKinlay in the Superior court yesterday enjoined the State-Lake theater from paying Floyd Christy, 30 years old, his $350 weekly salary for doing slow motion flipflops on the stage. This action was taken at the request of Christy's wife, Vee, 640 Wrightwood avenue, a former chorus girl.

Mrs. Christy asked the injunction through her attorney, Max Lurie, until her separate maintenance suit can be tried. She charges Christy deserted her Christmas eve.

Born in Elgin, Ill., Maytag was educated in rural schools and first became a farmer. Later he was an implement salesman and then an executive of a lumber concern.

Iowa Senate Member.

Maytag was a member of the Iowa state senate from 1902 to 1912 and was mayor of Newton, Ia., where he maintained a home from 1923 to 1925. For the last few years he had lived in his Beverly Hills mansion in retirement.

Known as a philanthropist, the manufacturer donated $250,000 to the Y. M. C. A. of Newton, in addition to giving thousands of dollars to various midwestern colleges. On his 70th birthday he distributed $132,000 to his employés.

HEART ATTACK KILLS WOMAN DRIVER AFTER ARREST FOR SPEEDING

Mrs. Frances Bronson, 49 years old, 357 Billings street, Elgin, died yesterday of a heart attack soon after she was arrested for speeding by the Melrose Park police. Dr. Gilbert Pond, 1140 Lake street, Oak Park, said the excitement of the arrest aggravated a weak heart condition from which Mrs. Bronson had suffered for three years.

Mrs. Bronson and her daughter, Mrs. Audria Martin, 21 years old, were taken to Melrose Park station by policemen, who said Mrs. Bronson was driving fifty miles an hour. After questioning, she was released on her own bond for a hearing March 30.

Mrs. Martin took the wheel of the car. Her mother complained of feeling ill in Oak Park, and Dr. Pond was summoned. Mrs. Bronson died before she could be taken to a hospital.

Mrs. Martin and her father, Byron F. Bronson, master mechanic at the Elgin National Watch company, said they would demand an investigation, asserting the police had been too severe. Police insisted Mrs. Bronson had been questioned in an orderly manner at the station.

DRIVER WRECKS HIS CAB; INJURES 2; GETS 90 DAYS

Dominic Martino, 33 years old, 543 North Springfield avenue, a driver who has been working for the Yellow Cab company for the last eight days, was sentenced to 90 days in the Bridewell by Judge George B. Weiss in Safety court yesterday. Martino was arrested early in the day for forcing two cab passengers to accompany him on a wild drive which ended when he crashed into a State street surface car near Oak street.

One of the cab passengers, Miss Pearl Dancha, 39 years old, 2111 Cleveland avenue, was seriously injured in the crash. The other passenger, Miss Margaret Belvedere of the same address, was slightly bruised. They were taken to Henrotin hospital.

Plead to Get Out.

The women told police that they entered the cab at State street and Chicago avenue and rode north. They soon became fearful of Martino's driving, they said, and asked him to let them out, but he ignored their pleas.

At Oak street Martino's cab struck the street car and sidewiped an automobile. The cab was partly crushed, but no one in the street car or the other automobile was injured.

A sentence of ten days was entered by Judge Weiss against Henry Jenks, 42 years old, 258 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, for driving while intoxicated near Washington boulevard and Des Plaines street on March 16.

Faints After Decision.

Harold A. Nelson, 29 years old, 3046 North Linder avenue, was freed of a charge of reckless driving by Judge Weiss after witnesses testified he was not at fault when his car struck and fatally injured Miss Dorothy Effinger, 33 years old, 1623 Belmont avenue, at Ashland and Lincoln avenues on Jan. 29.

The accident victim's mother, Mrs. Leonora Effinger, 1623 Belmont avenue, fainted after she heard the judge's decision. Court attaches and relatives revived her.

Pfaffinger, treasurer and director of the Los Angeles Times, went to work for that newspaper, and today the 83 year old executive commemorated the anniversary by announcing that his entire fortune will go to a fund in perpetuity which under a board of control will "afford an income for the benefit of newspaper employés." Mr. Praffinger's estate is estimated at more than a million.

He was born in Asbach, Bavaria, was apprenticed as a cabinet maker, and came to America with his box of tools at 28 years of age. He worked in a shop in Kansas City, then went to a business college, worked for a year or two as a dry goods store cashier, and in a Kansas City harness shop. He came to Los Angeles in 1885, met the late Gen. Harrison Grey Otis, founder of the Los Angeles Times, and both the general and Mrs. Otis took a liking to him.

VISA FOR THOMAS OVERSHADOWS SOCIALIST ISSUES

A principal question at issue before the National Socialist party convention which opened at the La Salle hotel yesterday was whether to join communists and other radicals in an American popular front political party. But of more interest to the delegates was the dickering of Norman Thomas, many time Socialist party candidate for President, for a visa which would permit him to visit Russia on a forthcoming European tour.

In the morning the party issued a statement that the Russian embassy at Washington had refused to grant Thomas and his wife the visa. Thomas said he thought the opposition arose because he is a member of the North American committee for the defense of Leon Trotzky.

At 4 in the afternoon, however, word arrived from Washington that the visa had been granted. Meanwhile the popular front issue is to be taken up today.

HAND OPERATED BRIDGE BARRIERS SOUGHT BY JURY

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in the case of Livio Cortesia, 21 years old, 532 North Oakley avenue, who was drowned on March 14 when his automobile plunged off the half open Jackson boulevard bridge into the river.

The jury recommended that the city install hand controled emergency gates on all bridges. The lack of such gates contributed to Cortesia's death. The bridgetenders raised one leaf of the bridge to let a boat through. The other leaf remained down because of a burned fuse. This accident prevented them from lowering the electrically controled safety barriers. Cortesia, seeing no warnings, drove through.

CLARK GABLE WILL APPEAR IN RADIO PLAY

Second Effort in Air Lanes by Screen Star.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Clark Gable, who has had to move over to make room for Robert Taylor and Tyrone Power lately, is to make one of his infrequent radio appearances in an adaptation of Ernest Hemingway's "A Farewell to Arms" on the CBS Radio Theater broadcast for Monday, April 1. If Mr. Gable does no better by this part than he did as Washington in Maxwell Anderson's "Valley Forge" it is just as well that Hemingway is in Spain assisting the loyalists.

Power, who formerly worked in local studios, made his New York radio debut Thursday on Rudy Vallee's varieties.

Richard Bonelli is getting to be radio's Number 1 pinch-singer. Last Sunday he finished off Nelson Eddy's series for him. Eddy was sick. And tomorrow he is to take Richard Crooks' place on the Sunday evening hour over WBBM-CBS at 8 o'clock. Crooks is laid up with laryngitis.

Breaking a long standing taboo of radio, the subject of pregnancy is to be discussed in the University Broadcasting Council program, "Science in the News," over WMAQ-NBC at 5 p. m. Tuesday. Dr. F. H. Lewy of the University of Pennsylvania will tell of some of his findings in the field of pregnancy diseases.

Jane Froman, favorite contralto of the airlanes, will make her first radio appearance in many months as a guest of Chu Chu Martinez on his program of plaintive ranchero songs at 2:45 p. m. tomorrow over WCFL-NBC.

Jerry Belcher, who puts on the program "Our Neighbors" from the homes of representative Americans, is setting up a michrophone in the living room of Arthur Brayton, 187 Ridge avenue, Winnetka, at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow over WENR. Mr. Brayton is a Marshall Field & Co. executive.

Last Sunday Belcher interviewed a Cleveland family with mildly disastrous results. "If you were given all the pennies you wanted what would you buy?" he inquired of the young daughter of the household. The child rambled on about dolls and bicycles. Then he asked her whether she wouldn't get her mother something, too.

The Easter broadcast from St. Peter's in Rome is to start at 4 o'clock tomorrow morning. The pope expects to pronounce the benediction at about 5:30 a. m. Outlets: WBBM, WLS, WMAQ.

JEWISH SHOPS IN POLAND BOMBED IN STRIKE WAVE

WARSAW, Poland, March 26.—(AP)—A wave of anti-Semitic agitation, accompanied by bombings that caused considerable property damage, swept over strike-beset Poland today.

The strikers—approximately 100,000 in number—generally demanded higher wages to meet rapidly rising living costs. In many cases the walkouts were directed against Jewish employers.

An incendiary bomb was hurled at a Jewish shop in the city of Poznan. Furs valued at $30,000 were destroyed. A passer-by was injured when a Jewish textile shop was bombed at Grudziadz.

In Warsaw Jewish shop signs were smeared with pitch. Sitdowners who took over a metal factory here in February continued to hold their posts, while the city's newest coffee houses remained in the hands of strikers who have occupied them for a week.

Widespread Jewish boycotts hampered trade and brought protests from Jewish business men.

Hundreds of strikes were under way in the nation, with trouble impending in the textile mills of the Bialystok district.

U. S. SAILOR, IN NAZI PRISON 15 MONTHS, SPEAKS ON FASCISM

Lawrence Simpson.

Lawrence Simpson, American seaman who was imprisoned for fifteen months in a German concentration camp charged with high treason for possessing anti-Fascist literature, is now touring major cities of this country in a campaign against Fascism. He spoke in Chicago last night at a mass meeting of the International Labor Defense in the Capitol building.

Simpson, a communist, was taken from the U. S. S. Manhattan, commanded by Capt. A. B. Randall, when German spies found him in possession of anti-Fascist pamphlets which he claims he had been distributing in Hamburg. After eight months' imprisonment he was convicted of sedition in the Peoples' court of Berlin and sentenced to three years' hard labor. His sentence was commuted by Realmleader Adolf Hitler of Germany after the intervention of American officials.

Authors Reveal Real Romance in Mathematics

Subject Made Fascinating for the Lay Reader.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

MATHEMATICS to most of us is a habit of which we are conscious only when it occasionally becomes a pain in the pocketbook [income tax, etc.]. To a very few, mathematics is more fascinating than Bach to a musician, more stimulating than caffeine to a runner.

To the average man there has never been a mean between the most commonplace application of the simplest mathematical rules and the esoteric interpretation of them socially. And now, suddenly, mathematics has become popular. Books about it have become best sellers.

Role of Mathematics in Human Progress.

"Mathematics for the Million," by Lancelot Hogben, F. R. S. [Norton, $3.75.] Published Thursday.

"Mathematics for the Million" seems destined to live up to its title. It comes to us from England, where it outsold all fiction and all nonfiction; it was indorsed by H. G. Wells, Julian Huxley, and Bertrand Russell, among the very cognoscenti, and the thousands of unsung readers who proved their delight in it by actually buying it.

The author, first of all, has written a fascinating book about humankind and its progress. There are staggering formulæ here and there and complications of calculation at which the ordinary mind balks more violently than an untrained horse does at a seven foot hurdle. But the author generously suggests that the reader skip the formulæ and walk around the hurdles.

First, he says, read the book through once quickly and get a bird's-eye view of the social interconnections of mathematics. Thus, the reader sees, perhaps for the first time in his life, mathematics as the mirror of civilization. Then, says Mr. Hogben, "get down to brass tacks" and work out everything for yourself.

"Mathematics for the Million" is really a popular textbook on all the phases of mathematics, including the calculus, but so brilliantly has its author written it that he has succeeded in getting his readers really excited. And thus, I submit, he has attained the object not only of all good textbooks but of all literature.

"Mathematics for the Million" is no primer. Note that it is not called "Mathematics for the 48 million" population of the British Isles or "Mathematics for the 122 million" population of the United States [1930]. It is destined for those who can read as well as run.

Mathematics as Help in Physical Sciences.

"The Handmaiden of the Sciences," by Eric T. Bell. [Reynal & Hitchcock, $2.]

The Scientific Book club sent its members for February "The Handmaiden of the Sciences," which explains briefly the part that mathematics has played in the physical sciences. Dr. Eric T. Bell, the author, declares in his prefatory note that "practically no technical knowledge is presupposed. Those who have had some high school mathematics will be able to supplement everything."

Men of Mathematics in Brief Biographies.

"Men of Mathematics" by E. T. Bell. [Simon & Schuster, $5.]

The same Eric Temple Bell, professor of mathematics, California Institute of Technology, has just given us a mammoth volume, "Men of Mathematics," intended for readers without special technical knowledge.

In it he does for the history of mathematics exactly what Will Durant did for philosophy in "The Story of Philosophy." He sketches the history of mathematics in short biographies of the men who gave their lives to it and whose lives gave something to the science. The reader almost without effort gets to know a lot about mathematics and meets a great many interesting men.

After you've met the thirty-four mathematicians in their carpet slippers as well as in their thinking caps you decide that they are men just like other men under their mathematical skins.

Book Views in Brief

Epic Events in Irish History Vividly Told.

"Army Without Banners," by Ernie O'Malley. [Houghton-Mifflin, $3.]

"Army Without Banners" is the story, vivid and revealing, of an army in whose creation Ernie O'Malley played a large and heroic rôle—a force which, pitifully underarmed and undermanned, definitly turned the tide of England's seven centuries of effort to make Ireland an obedient stepchild of the empire.

A week before the uprising of 1916, Ernie O'Malley, then a medical student at the National university, had practically decided to join the British army. Then the Easter week revolt changed O'Malley (as it changed Ireland. Each with equal suddenness became Irish.

Chucking his medical studies, O'Malley turned to the study of military tactics and their application to guerrilla warfare. During the years 1916-1920 he cycled through Ireland, forming and training units of the Irish Republican army.

Once on a special mission he traveled through England in the uniform of a British army officer. Eventually the English got to know of O'Malley. They wanted him out of the way. One day the Black and Tans captured him. They took him to Dublin castle. A series of ferocious beatings and some byplay with a red hot poker found O'Malley persisting in being a man named Stewart. His subsequent escape from Kilmainham jail is an exciting episode.

Not all the swiftly moving pages of "Army Without Banners" tell of shootings, hairbreadth escapes, raids, and reprisals. In it are some of the finest descriptions of the physical face of Ireland ever written.

It is by far the best of the many personal accounts of the most exciting, most momentous period in seven hundred years of Irish history.

Harris' Volume on Wilde Denounced.

"Bernard Shaw, Frank Harris, and Oscar Wilde," by Robert H. Sherard. [Greystone, $3.50.]

This book is frankly a denunciation of Frank Harris' "Life and Confessions of Oscar Wilde" and of Bernard Shaw's indorsement of Harris' work. Robert H. Sherard, a veteran journalist and a friend of Wilde, charges that Harris maliciously fabricated much of the "Life and Confessions" to make it sensational and profitable. Sherard assails Shaw for refusing to detect fallacies in Harris' writing. Sherard's book is interesting and convincing in much of the analysis, but he appears too didactic.

Tragic Phase of War Poignantly Re-created.

"Told With a Drum," by Edward Harris Heth. [Houghton-Mifflin, $2.]

In his second novel, "Told With a Drum," Edward Harris Heth emerges as a writer of definite ability, a master of characterization, action, and dialog.

Through the youthful eyes of a grandson, Mr. Heth re-creates a particular war tragedy too easily forgotten, the pathos of a German-American family struggling against war hysteria in a midwestern city not named, but like Milwaukee, where the author lives. Because young Leo does not realize the import of what is happening, the turgid twisting of events sweeps the Tellinger clan through the fierce war years with even greater poignancy.

This is tragedy recollected in tranquility. Rugged Hans Tellinger sees the city of his peace and power, which he governed many times as mayor, turn on his family, lash it with the fury of mob thinking, and make him inevitably an intolerant partisan of his German fatherland. The descriptions of the familiar frozen shoreline, of the leisurely life, with its hospitable attendance on tradition, and of the old German houses will delight Chicago readers.

Emotional Journeys Set Down in Novel.

"The Emotional Journey," by W. B. Maxwell. [D. Appleton-Century, $2.50.]

In his latest novel, a story of literary London, W. B. Maxwell holds the theory that "emotions are essentially of more consequence than adventures in a life," that in looking back over the years "feelings rather than events are remembered" and that, since "to feel is to live . . . every life is an emotional journey."

The emotional journeys with which this book is concerned are those of Gordon Lake, a struggling young author; Bridget Addington, with whom he is in love, and David Bruce, her guardian and for many years regarded the dean of English letters. The slight plot is complicated by a London publisher, A. F. Duncan, who accuses Bruce of plagiarism.

Mr. Maxwell writes in his usual extremely slow tempo, filling in with gently caustic comments on the London literary world. Those who have read many of his thirty novels will doubtless find pleasure in "The Emotional Journey."

New Burr Biography Follows Middle Path.

"Aaron Burr, the Proud Pretender," by Holmes Alexander. [Harpers, $3.50.]

There are biographies enough of Aaron Burr, but most of them have been authored with a whitewash brush or a tar bucket. The man has been damned for a scheme to cheat Jefferson of the presidency and he has been wept over as the victim of Hamilton's persecution. As usual, the truth is about half way between the extremes. Because he has followed that path, Mr. Alexander's fascinating book must be rated as one of the best biographies of the year.

He explains Burr in terms of an aphorism chosen by the man himself: "Great souls have small use for little morals." Burr was brilliant and able, and might easily have taken his place as a peer of the founding fathers. But he never had a sense of guilt. He had no conscience. He was not immoral, but unmoral.

Without the least touch of the philosopher or the evangelist, Burr wrecked careers as soldier, lawyer, statesman, and even as a father. He sacrified the daughter he loved so dearly to gain South Carolina's eight electoral votes!

Still, modern politicians owe a debt to this man who wanted to be emperor of America. He delivered the first campaign speech, and he was the first to utilize the Society of St. Tammany to carry New York.

Romantic Love Story in Outworn Manner.

"The Faithful Lovers," by J. D. Beresford. [Lee Furman, $2.50].

If the eldest Rover boy had met and loved Elsie Dinsmore their romance could not have been any sweeter, nobler, or sillier than the story J. D. Beresford tells of Bryan Davys and Shirley Veheyne in his latest novel, "The Faithful Lovers."

Within two minutes after he first sees the fair Shirley the poor but honest Bryan decides to leave no stone unturned to become "rich, respected, and the husband of Shirley Veheyne." He does it in 350 pages.

A Remarkable Autobiography of a Criminal

A Classic Beauty Achieved in His Prose Style.

"Angels in Undress," by Mark Benney. [Random, $2.50.] Published last week.

ENGLAND has rarely in our day been more excited over a book than over "Low Company," published in this country as "Angels in Undress." It is the autobiography of a burglar, born unnamed to a prostitute, educated in reform schools, frankly without the customary standards of decent living, written in a prose style which wrings such praise as "heaven born writer" from a critic as little prone to superlatives as Rebecca West.

The material of this autobiography is fascinating. Mark Benney tells all with an honesty which is almost unique. He deflates thrills as readily as he inflates commonplaces. To the underworld, he says, human beings are divided into two classes—the mugs [you and I and the rest of us who work for an honest living] and the "wide" people who work only their fellows, never themselves. He states the point of view of the "wide" people—frankly and with little sociological comment.

The material of the book is fascinating, but the use the author makes of it is astounding. He writes in a prose style that has the dignity and strength of classic English. He often uses a long word when a short one would do as well, but the result is not ludicrous. It is reminiscent of the great rolling ponderousnesses of Johnsonian English. His style is a phenomenon of self-education.

Reared as a "guttersnipe," Benney spoke a language which had no faint connection with written English, so that when he began to read he was practically learning a foreign language. His prose has the inherently classic beauty of the English prose of a naturally gifted foreigner.

There is no doubt about Mark Benney's being a gifted writer. He has the true novelist's seeing eye. Every character in his autobiography is an individual and skillfully portrayed. He has a ready wit. He says once, in describing himself very discomfited in an impressively expensive hotel, "Each minute left me feeling more and more like a soup stain on a ducal tablecloth."

The unimpeachable English publisher, Peter Davies, swears that the book is not a hoax. Even if it should turn out, like the autobiography of Opal Whitely, to be a fake, or like that of Joan Lowell and the report of Mark Twain's death, to be greatly exaggerated, "Angels in Undress" would still be remarkable.

"The Lincoln shelf of books has acquired a masterpiece of inquiry, research, discussion and statement, in Otto Eisenschiml's 'Why Was Lincoln Murdered?' And so rigorous is it in analysis and so relentless and moving as a piece of story-telling, that it also belongs on the bookshelves of those who collect masterly narratives in the field of crime."
—Carl Sandburg

LEAPS IN CANAL TO RESCUE BOY; BOTH DROWNED

James Fontana Jr., 13 years old, 2342 West 25th street, fell into the icy drainage canal yesterday when he lost his footing on the Pennsylvania railroad bridge at 31st and Rockwell streets.

Earl McJones, 24 years old, colored, 4808 Champlain avenue, was at work near by on a WPA project. A good swimmer, he plunged from the bank to rescue the boy.

He was able to bring the boy to the surface and swam to within ten feet of the bank. Apparently exhausted then by the exertion of swimming in his heavy clothing, McJones sank and both he and Fontana were drowned. Police and firemen recovered the bodies an hour later. Fontana was a pupil in the Rickard school.

Adult Point of View Is Beyond Grasp of Child

Therefore Tact, Praise Are Aids in Discipline.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Did you ever think that the way we look at a thing and the way a child looks at it is so entirely different that it is almost as if we looked through one end of a pair of field glasses and he looked through the other, at the very same thing? To us it may look small, but to him large and important.

We may say to ourselves, from our heights of superior wisdom: "But it really is a small matter." That makes no difference. If it seems important to him then it is important to him. And if something else seems important to us it is hard to help him understand our point of view. If we can bear this in mind it will help us a lot to be sympathetic with our children.

Much of the resistance that youngsters set up to routine things is caused by this divergence between their idea of what is important, and ours. We so often want them to hurry, or to get things done within a prescribed length of time. We stress the need of cleanliness of hands and face and clothes. We make a great to-do about manners, even with a little child. And there are dozens of other examples, that you could supply yourself.

Here's a Case for Daughter to Assert Self

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Can you imagine, in this day and age, a daughter of 25, self-supporting, too, being subjected to a lashing with a dog chain before her escort because she arrived home at 12:30? There the pair stood in the hallway while mother mouthed her ugly opinion of a girl who would stay out so late and of the man who would keep her out that late, meanwhile hitting at the girl with the dog leash.

This is no case either of a willful girl, if we can read decent characteristics between the lines. She's a brow-beaten young woman, victim of a hateful old woman, a selfish old woman who isn't going to let her best meal ticket of the family out of her clutches. When you get one of those female terrors lording it over a household of daughters, or a single daughter, you have one of the worst works of nature.

The young woman tells the story of the late home coming as due to seeing the movie over again, having arrived too late for the first show. A stop on the way home at a harmless drug store counter was the crime that brought the clock to 12:30 before the young woman realized the time. But what if it were 12:30? Surely, if a woman of 25, able, intelligent, and responsible enough to hold down a job that almost supports the family, ought to be able to stay out until 12:30 unquestioned.

It isn't the incident in these cases. They are merely something onto which to hang a vicious authority. They are the excuse to express an abnormal maternal hate. One might even suggest, in pity, that daughter take her parent to be examined by a psychiatrist.

Under the circumstances reported, the daughter should have walked out of that home, taken a room at a hotel for the night, and served notice that from now on she would enjoy her rights, as a 25 year old woman, to a life in which justice figured more freely. Our young woman reports that in the four years she has known the young man, never once has she been able to bring him in to a meal or for an evening in her home, further damning the parental character posing as a mother.

Exercise Aids in Flattening Shoulder Area

Miss Donnelly Gives Tips on Slenderizing Back.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"O for a back as flat and straight as Kay Francis'" cries one of our correspondents.

She tells of her possession of one of those heavily padded shoulder backs, which padding reaches up to the middle of the neck and covers the shoulder blades thickly. You know the sort of back. You see it often. You see it through capes and bloused backs and other subterfuges attempting to hide it. But it won't be hidden. It's the tailors' and the dressmakers' pet dislike, as they say it ruins their designs. With the rush of tailored suits this year it has to be done away with, that's all. And, believe it or not, it is one of the most easily removed collections of fat. Not without a fight, however.

I know a woman who has to fight this back thickening all the time. Periodically she goes after it. It's getting now, so that she doesn't let it grow thick on her. She watches it carefully, but one of her tricks of slimming and straightening her back is following two exercises that I have recommended time and again.

It's just as well to tackle this padded feature with a few good stretching exercises that do good all over. Anyway, they'll get you down on the floor where you must be for one of the exercises you must do. It is simply getting down on the floor, with your shoulders tight to the carpet, and massaging the lumpy area against the floor. You are stretching the body full length as you rub your fat-padded back against the floor. You stretch as you rub, but you rub until you feel friction along the padded parts. You'll get the trick of it yourself, once you're down at work. Rub the shoulders to right and to left, pause for breath and a long stretch on the back of the neck muscles. Start again rubbing, squirming the flesh off.

Then get on your feet and plant yourself against a wall. Step your feet forward as far as you can to hold your balance, but keep your head and shoulders flat against the wall. Now bend your body back and forth, back and forth twenty times at a stretch. Repeat a half dozen times a day. You can do this while you are dressed, and the more often you do it the more quickly you will achieve a back like that of Kay Francis.

Errol Flynn to Spain.

PARIS, March 26. — (AP) — Errol Flynn, film actor and adventurer, left for Spain by train tonight, leaving behind his actress wife, Lili Damita. Flynn said he was going "to see what's going on."

Shirt Frock Is a Standby

Styles may come and styles may go, but the good old stand-by, the shirtwaist frock, remains a perennial favorite, because women have found that its uses are legion and that it attires any type of figure smartly. Just to be different, we have given this model a few new touches, and we are certain you will like it. The sports season is right ahead, so you should be prepared with a frock or two to start the sunny days on golf links, tennis court, or grandstand.

The soft fullness of the bodice makes this frock particularly comfortable to wear. The skirt has an important front plait which assures easy walking. The two pockets on the skirt and the collar are stitched as a new note. The sleeves are plaited, and buttons accent the tuxedo effect of the closing.

The sketch at the left illustrates the best version for plain shades and delicate prints in both cottons and silks. The version at the right, without pockets and with long sleeves and opened neckline, is ideal for strips in gay shades. The versions are interchangeable, of course. Just follow your own good judgment, and you won't go wrong.

Style No. 2686 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material.

Cross and Diamond.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Cross and Diamond" is an interesting pieced block which has the appearance of a distinguished medal. The original coverlet from which the pattern was derived was designed by a gifted eastern woman with a marvelous sense of color. She chose deep purple silk from an old dress, a rich Italian yellow, with a vivid silk print for the center patch. The small 10 inch blocks are set together to form an all-over design, and 80 blocks, surrounded by a four inch border, will produce a coverlet 88 by 108 inches.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Miss Winston Will Be Bride of Southerner

Announcement Made at Florida Home.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MRS. BERTRAM M. WINSTON today is announcing the engagement of her daughter Muriel, to Glenn Augustus Kaminer, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Kaminer of Gadsden, S. C.

The romantic news is relayed by F. Hampden Winston, who received a telegram yesterday afternoon from Miami, Fla., where Mrs. Winston and her daughter have been staying in their winter home since shortly before Christmas.

The young southerner who is to marry Miss Winston has known her for several years, for his sister is an old friend of hers and has visited her here and in Florida. Mrs. Winston and her daughter will return to Chicago next month.

Easter Week-End Will Be Busy One.

The Easter week-end will provide social circles with a variety of entertainment, including even a debutante party, unusual for this time of the year. Tomorrow, of course, if the day be fair, every one will be out parading in traditional Easter finery. Every church will be filled to overflowing, for many persons who customarily do not go to Sunday services attend church on Easter morning.

The services tomorrow morning at St. James', the oldest Episcopal church in the city, will mark the 73d anniversary of that Easter in 1864 when the congregation laid on the altar an offering of thirty thousand dollars, paying off the debt of the church.

THE TRIBUNE of the next day, March 28, reported that the collection was "probably one of the largest ever taken up in one Sunday by any congregation in this country; it speaks volumes for the liberality of the people, and their appreciation of their pastor's labors." That amount still would be a record breaking collection for any church, for half that much is a very large Easter collection nowadays. The church celebrated its centennial in 1934.

Four of St. James' vestrymen are away, so will not be present to take up this year's Easter offering. They are Joseph T. Ryerson, senior warden; Col. Robert G. Peck, junior warden; Edward L. Ryerson Jr., and Walter E. Miller.

Miss Camilla Alsop Will Visit Fiance.

Missing from the Easter parade at St. Chrysostom's tomorrow will be the familiar figure of I. Newton Perry. Mr. Perry has gone down to Thomasville, Ga., for a week to visit at the home of Mrs. J. Morse Ely. When he returns he will make plans for a party he will give late next month for Miss Camilla Alsop, who is arriving from Boston on Thursday to spend three weeks with her fiancé, F. Leo H. Wendell, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Wendell Jr. Mrs. Perry is not expected to return until June from Manila, where she is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Harold Kneedler.

From Boston has come the announcement from Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. O. Alsop that the marriage of their daughter to young Mr. Wendell will take place at 4 o'clock June 18 at St. Michael's church, Milton, Mass., with a reception following at the Alsop home, Indian Hollow. Barrett Wendell III. will be his brother's best man.

Reveal Engagement of Miss Nancy Thomas

Another romance to make the Easter holiday gayer is being made known today with the announcement from Mr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Thomas of Winnetka of the engagement of their daughter, Nancy, to George W. Hines of St. Louis, son of Good Morning!

If you find yourselves wondering who Virginia Bruce reminds you of in this picture, I can tell you. Claudette Colbert! There are times when she's Claudette—a blonde one, of course—down to the last mannerism. [Not that you mind—heavens NO! Delightful imitation of a delightful person.]

This is a silkily directed production with a lot of snappy dialog. It has a "Camille" trend in that the lovely Miss Bruce plans to sacrifice her happiness for that of the man she loves, having had it rubbed into her that the likes of her is not for the likes of him.

She knows she's acting like Camille because she went to the opera once and saw the lady of the camellias operate. And, at the time she had thought, "How WONDERFUL to be able to do such a thing for the boy friend!"

Well—she gets her chance.

The man in the case is an artist, engaged to marry a lovely and socially prominent girl. A really lovely one, too! Class, manners, brains, beauty, heart. All it takes!

He meets Gloria, a slangy, hard boiled but mighty pretty night club entertainer, and persuades her to pose for him. She interests him, and he decides to make a lady out of the gamin. While earnestly engaged in this missionary work he discovers that he loves, not his fiancée, but his model.

The former does a quietly effective job of renunciation, and events speed on to a climax you'd like a heap better if you hadn't grown so fond of the girl who didn't get her man. . . .

The picture is really beautifully acted by all concerned. This fact and its other assets shave the whiskers off the old plot and give the piece a groomed, peppy front that should make it easy to sell to almost anybody.

Festival of National Folk Art to Open in Chicago May 22

The National Folk festival will be held May 22 to 28 in Orchestra hall. This marks the first time that a northern city has been host to this unique folk observance. The three previous festivals were held in St. Louis, Chattanooga, and Dallas. The Adult Education council of Chicago is sponsoring this year's festival as its contribution to the city's Charter Jubilee celebrations.

The folk festival consists of music, song ,and dance. Groups of men and women will come from many parts of the country to present the type of music and dance peculiar to their particular section. The purpose is to preserve the national lore and to acquaint the country at large with the strange beauties of some of its authentic folk art. The participants are nonprofessionals.

Rev. Weihe, Cudahy, Wis., to Join Chicago Mission

Milwaukee, Wis., March 26.—(AP)—The Rev. Leroy S. Weihe, pastor of the Cudahy, Wis., Evangelical church since May 12, 1931, announced tonight he would leave on the sixth anniversary of his pastorate to accept a position with the Chicago Inner Mission society, a social service branch of the United Lutheran Church of America.

Ready for Easter Hunt

Babby, the Robert McKennas' daughter, may look as startled when she sees the Easter bunny as she did in this picture but she certaintly will not look at all frightened for the bunny she will see is Hilary Maher, who isn't so very much larger than she.

Last year the bunny at the Lake Shore Drive hotel's Easter egg hunt was so large that all the little children were frightened, so this year a son of the Philip Mahers will play the Easter bunny's rôle. The hunt tomorrow will be at 12:30 o'clock.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock children who live in the neighborhood of the Drake hotel will gather in the hotel s Fountain room to hunt live ducks. Mrs. Eugene Cary, Mrs. Augustus Eddy and Mrs. Arnold Kirkeby are among those who will act as hostesses to the little folk.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

All of those women who have come back from their sun worshipping in points south or west are moaning about the way their precious coat of tan is disappearing. It doesn't take many days of sunless Chicago weather to turn the most chocolately coat to a pale beige.

There are two things to do about it: You can go in for sessions under the sunlamp, provided, of course, you do it under the direction of a capable and cautious expert. Or you can fool the people by a makeup.

One day this week we saw a wonderful tropical makeup that is the best tan out of jars and bottles we've ever seen. We even had one ourself and had every one complimenting us on the healthy, becoming tan we'd suddenly acquired. Which is a pretty good test, since we've been no further south this year than the end of the loop.

The foundation for this is a lustrous makeup base with a faintly rosy-tan powder over it. [Ordinarily for those to whom sheen is becoming powder isn't used. The Hollywood stars buy this lustrous base practically by the quart.] When it's used in a dusky but not too brown shade for a camouflage tropical makeup it is gently dried.

Then comes a titian rouge, cleverly blended over the base and over this the powder in a shade that completely escapes the dull tinge because of its lovely undertone of rosiness—just a suggestion of it, but enough to make it a faintly glowing tan.

With this brown mascara is usually used, but you can have black if it's more becoming. Green eye shadow is very tosh with it if there is a suggestion of green or gray in brown eyes. It's tremendously effective as a makeup and a find for the woman whose tan is fading. It's grand with white hair. ELEANOR NANGLE.

New Color Film Puts Emphasis on Naturalness

Technique for Black and White Movies Used.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 26.—[Special.]—The step that Director Irving Cummings is trying with the use of color in "Vogues of 1938" at United Artists was so obvious that every previous color picture maker stumbled over it.

Cummings is using "black and white" technique in shooting his all color drama. "We are just forgetting all about the camera recording things in their real color and are making it as simply and naturally as we can," Cummings said.

"I haven't permitted any one to introduce a vase of flowers, a bright scarf, or a glimpse of something or other which would photograph vividly just to remind an audience that it is seeing color."

Cummings hopes his audience will forget it is seeing color. He wants his picture's spectators to be aware only that they are seeing an interesting story. "We are using neutral colors in our backgrounds and making the color phase wholly subordinate," Cummings adds. "I don't know why, but nobody ever attempted to color a color picture naturally before. All past color pictures, even the few good ones, showed that some one yielded to the desire to splash in some color effects to make an impression."

Cummings has his lead and subordinate players use makeup as near life coloring as possible. In most recent color films it was thought necessary to apply a brown like that of Blackfeet Indians to the male players. The obvious touching up of the women's features, special shades of paint given to sets and the experiments attempted by directors, producers, and color "engineers" made past picture audiences often forget they were looking at a dramatic story.

Cummings was directing a scene in which a glum crowd is shown leaving a Boston theater after a "road tryout" of a new play financed by Warner Baxter. Sixty people walk through the foyer and all look unhappy but one.

The one, a chubby, partly bald fellow in a tuxedo, comes out almost doubled with laughter. In the fore part of the lobby his sense of humor topples him against a pillar. This is a fine spot for a closeup, with all the annoyed males and snooty females of the theater audience giving him mean looks.

"The man laughing is Dick Elliott," Cummings explained. "He is the unfailing barometer at the trial showing of plays. When Elliott laughs they know the play will flop." Elliott's odd ability to burst into the heartiest of guffaws and continue laughing until the cue to stop—whether thirty seconds or three minutes—pays him four or five times the $15 and $25 of the other dress extras in the theater scene.

In "Vogues of 1938" Baxter is induced to finance the show for his ambitious wife [Helen Vinson], who quit the stage to marry a wealthy man and then decides she wants to return to it.

A regiment of pretty girls flits through most of its sequences and entertainment specialties.

Mary Carlisle gets the rôle opposite Bing Crosby in "Double or Nothing," the story of a night club manager named as one of the beneficiaries in the will of an eccentric who tries to scatter his estate among the least expecting recipients.

Because Madeleine Carroll's rôle with Ronald Colman in "Prisoner of Zenda" required cancellation of her trip to the British coronation, her husband, Capt. Philip Astley of London, has arranged to open the couple's home in the English capital for poor children that day. Their town place, Stratton house, is on the line of march of the coronation procession. Prince Sigvard Bernadotte, son of Sweden's crown prince, is associate technical director on "Prisoner of Zenda." M. Robert Guggenheim Jr. of the copper smelting family is assistant director on the same picture.

WHEN Blackburn Sims, author and trailer nomad, and Mrs. Sims were in northeastern Texas, coming back from a Christmas in Mexico City, they asked a native for directions.

Directions—Notes.

"Well, suh, yuh goes down this yah road for jest about three and a half looks, and yuh see a road, and yuh turn to the left jest about two looks, and yuh comes right to it," he answered.

* *

A LOOK, Mr. Sims explains, is as far as you can see down the road. You spot a tree or a clump of bushes, drive to it, and that is your first look. Spot something else farther down the road, and that is another look. Half a look? A distance halfway between you and the look.

SATURDAY Notes from the Friday Cuff:

A former Chicago house to house salesman is writing a book for housewives on how to develop sales resistance.

A commuter from Glen Ellyn [Frank Macleod] has figured that he travels 14,580 miles commuting during a single year, or a little more than halfway around the world. Figuring 27 working days a month, he spends 20 days and 6 hours a year commuting.

And Gertrude Niesen says that, since automobile radios make it possible to measure music in terms of mileage, a friend who tuned in on her program the other night says he listened to two miles of "Temptation" and that she held one note three blocks.

Clair Hull, WDZ director in Tuscola, Ill., who conducts a daily short wave broadcast from a Chicago and Eastern Illinois train traveling between Villa Grove and Tuscola, usually asks homely qoestions like "How would you break a youngster of the thumb-sucking habit?" and "In eating an apple, do you bite up or down?" asked 50 persons the meaning of W. C. T. U., and only two answered correctly.

Conversation at luncheon at the Arts club: "Did he marry that girl we met in Washington—that little blonde girl—you know, the one you wouldn't remember?"

Maj. P. C. Wren has dedicated his "The Spur of Pride" to Negley Farson, although he never has met him—out of "admiration for his book and because he states therein that my book 'Beau Geste' saved his life when he was perishing in a Swedish hospital." "Even the English," he adds, "feel they know a man whose life they have saved . . . without an introduction."

After throwing out nudes for 16 years the Woman's Club of Evanston hesitatingly accepted and hung a nude by Walt Otto for the current exhibition . . . and out of 300 paintings Mr. Otto's nude won the popular award by vote of the women of the club.

One or two Chicago children are having "coronation" clothes ordered for them—hats, coats, and dresses. Costume heirlooms of the future. ". . . and my granddaughter is going to the costume party in the dress I wore at the coronation of George VI. in 1937, when I was 12," some grandmother of the future will be saying.

We would like to second the Easter appeal of Dr. Young of the Chicago Anti-Cruelty society not to permit your children to handle live baby chickens and rabbits as if they were inanimate toys. Not to permit young children to handle them at all.

ENGAGEMENT

At a tea at home in Paxton, Ill., yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Larson announced the engagement of their daughter, Shirley Anne, to Lyle H. Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fisher of Fargo, N. D. Both young people are graduates of Northwestern university. Miss Larson was May Queen in 1934. Mr. Fisher was captain of the basketball team, and president of the senior class in 1935. The wedding will take place next fall, and the couple will live in Evanston.

Mixing Colors Made Easy for Busy Shoppers

Special Department Has Wide Selection.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

We have found a new "match or mix" department dedicated to shoppers who want to see what they're mixing or matching while they're shopping. A grand idea from the bright mind of some understanding soul. It's quite a large spot with all kinds and colors of jackets and coats on one side and dresses of every hue and shade on the other.

Here you come, try out every mix-up you've ever dreamed about. You see it assembled while you ponder and unless you are a most difficult person you're outfitted in at least an hour. No dress in the place sells for more than $13, peak prices for the coats are $16, and the assortments are almost limitless.

The low prices will make you believe in good luck again, for you can buy a coat for the small sum of $8, unlined, of course, and of light weight summer wool, but four knockout models from which to choose will keep you happy for weeks. The same low price is also marked on an amazingly large collection of short sleeved printed or plain one color dresses, and they're all slim, smart, high fashion models flattering to every one.

The department also presents capes, unlined affairs, for amazingly low prices, or the swankier, longer, heavier wools with good slippery linings. You've never seen so many different colors, shades, and tones; so many short, snappy, fleecy short jackets, or so many good looking dresses. Because this department has just been launched and is so tremendously popular, with the small budgeteers, the coats and dresses are going out fast. But new arrivals are promised for each day.

TRUTH TO TELL

By Alice Grant Rosman

[Copyright: 1937: By Alice Grant Rosman.]

SYNOPSIS.

Malcolm and Susan Dubenny's parents died in a flu epidemic during the war. Susan was taken by her mother's parents, the Somervilles. Mrs. Somerville refused the boy in hatred of his father, who had eloped with her daughter. Malcolm went to live with his Aunt Lorna and Uncle Hugh Lowell, his father's half-brother. Now 15, Malcolm has not seen his little sister for nine years and longs to meet her. He sets off on his bike on a secret mission to Crofter's End, the Somerville estate. In the woods of the estate the children meet. Susan denies she has a brother. Deeply hurt Malcolm leaves. Mr. Somerville's sister, Alison Loftus, returns to England after a long absence and visits Crofter's End. In her Susan finds a friend.

INSTALMENT XII.

LOST LOVE.

Jonathan did not accompany his wife and sister to the Lintons, and the host, whom Alison had known long ago, did not appear, but Mrs. Linton was delighted to renew her acquaintance, and had invited several pleasant people to meet her.

"Why didn't you bring my little friend Sue?" she asked reproachfully.

As Charlotte did not seem to hear the question, Mrs. Loftus said:

"Ella Winch," interposed Charlotte, now all attention, and looking sharply at her sister-in-law. "They are the greatest friends and it seems Ella had promised her a little treat."

Murmurs of praise were heard round the table both for Miss Winch and her festivity, whatever it might be, but Mrs. Loftus, remembering Sue's expression upon being summoned by Ella, was a little dubious. It had hardly seemed to suggest an ardent friendship.

"I must let the child come in and greet you at tea time, I suppose, if you can put up with her for 10 minutes. My poor Isabel's girl. . . ."

"Of course," returned Alison cordially. "She's a dear little soul. We made friends in the garden this morning."

"Then that is extremely disobedient of Susan, for I expressly forbid her to worry you with her chatter," exclaimed Charlotte, flushing. "I am astounded. She is usually a most amenable child. I can't account for it."

"You mustn't blame Sue, Charlotte. In fact it was entirely my fault. Seeing her running about I asked her to show me the gardens, and she probably felt it would be impolite to refuse. Tell me about your little granddaughter, Charlotte. Am I mistaken or are you and Jon bringing her up under the name of Somerville?"

"Really. But when so many people know she is a Dubenny aren't you afraid she may hear it elsewhere?" The visitor was remembering with consternation her own innocent lapse of the morning.

"I am perfectly capable of seeing that she does not, Alison. And please be good enough not to mention that name in my house. I won't hear it . . . it makes me ill."

"I'm sorry," apologized Mrs. Loftus. "I had forgotten what painful memories it must bring you."

"Painful? When I tell you that—that my granddaughter was brought to me with scarcely any clothes to her back from a squalid room in Bayswater, you will see to what depths that scoundrel had dragged my poor Isabel."

"My dear, how dreadful! No wonder you feel bitter," she said. "And didn't the relatives make themselves rather unpleasant? Who and what are they, Charlotte?"

"What a frightful situation . . . and that poor little boy. . . . You and Jon must be worried to death."

"The boy is and can be nothing to us," said Charlotte sharply. "I am thankful to have been able to save that poor baby from the contamination of such people, but the boy was far too old and the mischief done. I could not undertake such a responsibility, and I am determined to cut out the whole association for Susan's sake."

"Of course." Mrs. Loftus considered the matter, frowning. "I see that it is a very difficult and delicate position for you," she said at last. "I wonder if Michael and I could be of any help? You wouldn't like Michael to set some inquiries on foot, privately, of course, to find out that the boy is in no want and is at least being educated? I know Jon has all the expenses he can shoulder, and we are not well off, but we would be willing to help."

"Will you be good enough to mind your own business," she managed to say violently at last. "I will not put up with interference in this matter. . . . I absolutely forbid it, do you hear? . . . I can't bear it. . . . I am ill . . . let me go."

"Granny! What is it?"

"What is it, indeed, you disobedient, naughty girl? I am ashamed of you! Go away."

"But Granny, what have I done?"

"You know well what you have done, Susan. Don't lie to me . . ." stuttered her grandmother. "Racing about the garden with your great-aunt when I expressly forbade you to do anything of the kind."

"Ella indeed," said her grandmother. "It was your aunt herself who complained to me. And that's a nice thing, I must say, from a guest in my house. . . . Go away, this instant. I can't talk to you. I am too much upset."

At this moment Ella Winch came running to see what was amiss, and granny burst into tears again.

"Take me to my room, Ella, my dear. I am ill. . . . Fetch Mr. Somerville," she begged.

Sue ran to the schoolroom, shut herself in and stood there blindly, shaking from head to foot.

It was not the tempest which out of a clear sky had broken over her head, or her grandmother's anger and tears. She had experienced these before and they would pass. Something horrible had happened to Sue. She had had a friend and lost her. No, she had had not a friend but an enemy who had basely betrayed her as soon as her back was turned.

She felt cold and sick, and creeping across the room she stood with her face pressed to the window looking out. But this time she did not see the long green alleys. She saw only a dark and ugly world.

Mrs. Loftus walked about the drawing room torn between discomfiture and indignation, conscious of having been a fool to suppose that a woman of Charlotte's mentality would see any matter uncolored by her own private resentments.

She had been so horrified by the description of Isabel's children reduced to rags and penury that all her thoughts had been for the unfortunate boy, taken by these evidently undesirable relatives and condemned to similar conditions. She had not seen as she saw now that Charlotte had transferred her hatred of the father to the boy, and that her own well-meant offers of help had therefore given serious offense. She was sorry, for Jonathan's sake, and when a maid brought in tea, she asked the girl whether her master was in the house.

"He is with the mistress, madam. She is unwell and I was to say would you please not wait tea for them."

Many Bachelor Parties for Jay Morse Ely

Jay Morse Ely's bachelor friends are giving him a gay sendoff between now and next Saturday when his marriage to Miss Louise Stanley takes place in Evansville, Ind. Chauncey Hutchins, who will be one of his ushers, is giving a stag dinner for the prospective bridegroom, the other ushers, and a few other friends at home this evening, and there will be several other important impromptu stag parties before Mr. Ely's bachelor dinner Thursday night at the Racquet club, to which he is inviting several friends of his father, the late J. Morse Ely.

At midnight that night Mr. Ely and his ushers will board a train for Evansville and will reach there Friday in time for another round of parties. That day there will be a luncheon, a cocktail party, and the bridal dinner at the home of Miss Stanley's grandmother, Mrs. Stephen W. Cooke. On Saturday a luncheon is planned preceding the wedding at 4:30 o'clock at the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, and afterward Mr. and Mrs. John Stanley, Miss Stanley's parents, will give a reception at the Hotel McCurdy.

Mr. Ely's ushers, besides Mr. Hutchins, will include Walter Watson, Corwith Hamill, Garfield King, Gordon Palmer, Brewster Perry, John Stanley, brother of the bride-to-be; Fred W. Fairman Jr., Mr. Ely's brother-in-law; Henry Hughes of Evansville, Ind., and Francis North, who is coming from Harvard for the wedding. John H. Hamline will be his nephew's best man.

Mrs. J. Morse Ely and her daughter, Mrs. Fred W. Mrs. Wyndham Channer will have a booth of foods in one corner where Mrs. William Ogden Green's doughnuts and orange bread, Mrs. William S. Elliott's hot rolls, Mrs. James L. Houghteling's and Mrs. John E. Barber's nutbread, and Mrs. J. Eager Lloyd's angel food cake always are in demand.

Callahan, Mrs. Clifford Caldwell, Mrs. William M. Spencer, the Kendall Lingles, and Mrs. Edward Morris. Carola Goya, Spanish dancer, will be the soloist.

Mrs. Morris and Bill, one of the Morrises' three sons, are leaving tomorrow by motor for Asheville, N. C. Mr. Morris and Ted Morris are vacationing in Florida waters now aboard the Whim.

True balletomanes will spend a few hours Easter night at the opening performance of the Ballet Russe's brief Chicago appearance, which is being sponsored by the Big Brothers' association. Robert Tieken is chairman of the association, and he and his wife, and his brother and sister-in-law, the Theodore Tiekens, as well as the Ronald Chinnocks, the Maurice P. Geraghtys, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Schulz, the Willett N. Gorhams, and a number of others have taken tickets.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

RESPONSES TO A FORCING TAKE-OUT.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

When the response is a jump suit take-out, which is forcing to game, the opener has only to look at his hand and choose any available rebid in the following order:

1. With a second biddable suit he should bid the new suit.
2. Lacking a second biddable suit, but with a rebiddable suit, he should rebid his suit.
3. With adequate trump support for responder's suit he should raise.
4. With very strong support for partner's suit the opener now may make a jump asking bid or try for a slam with a conventional four no trump bid.
5. Lacking any of these requirements the opener should respond with the minimum number of no trump necessary, the minimum no trump bid being in this case, as in almost all cases, a negative bid.

TODAY'S HAND.

The bidding:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 heart | 1 spade | Pass | Pass |
| 2 clubs | 2 spades | 3 clubs | Pass |
| 3 hearts | Pass | 4 hearts | Pass |

"Dear Mr. Culbertson:

"The opening lead of the spade jack was taken by declarer with the ace. The heart king was played, and dummy entered with the spade king. A low heart then was led, and West played low, the ten being finessed by declarer, East showing out. The club ace was played, followed by the queen, West taking with the king and East showing out. West led the heart queen, which declarer took with the ace, and another heart was led to put West back in with the jack. West at this point must lead a diamond, which East takes with the ace, returning a spade. The spade return is ruffed with declarer's last heart, a diamond led to the king in dummy, and on the return a club is led through West's 10-6 to declarer's J-9.

"Since this hand is a type which often occurs, and on which the unwary declarer is in a great deal of trouble, I believe that it might serve as the object hand in one of your articles.

"Yours very truly,

"C. A. L., Washington, D. C."

The declarer's handling of the trump suit was the real crux of the hand. East's nine dropping on the first trump lead warned declarer that the suit might break badly, and his precaution in entering dummy and finessing up to his own hand was well calculated. The club situation also was well handled, but this was the natural development of the previous line of play. This was a hand calling for generally good technique rather than one involving any specific type of play.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: I opened the bidding with one spade and partner responded with two clubs. What is my correct rebid on the following:

♠ K Q 10 8 4 ♥ A 6 3 ♦ 7 4 ♣ K 8 6?

Writing Reveals Literary Bent of Sandburg

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

[Copyright: 1937: By Muriel Stafford.]

If you really are interested in the study of handwriting you will be delighted, I'm sure, with that of Carl Sandburg. It has all the qualities to be expected of this brilliant writer.

Miss Stafford—
Carl Sandburg

The small, rapid, broken writing will be the first literary indication noticed, of course. It is really astounding how much Sandburg writes like Abraham Lincoln, of whom he writes with so much understanding and sympathy. If you don't think so, notice the framed letters from President Lincoln in the lobby of THE TRIBUNE.

The "literary d," made with no down stroke, has more to say than usual in this handwriting because of the little flag that is flung from the top of the letter to the right. The indications of culture and literary discrimination are undisturbed, but such writers are "pleasure loving" as well and supposed to be fine judges of music and good talkers.

Do not think I am making this fit my impression of Carl Sandburg, for anybody who has heard him speak and strum his banjo afterwards will certainly think the graphological description too nearly perfect. As a matter of fact I should much prefer to tell you something about a man whom you never suspected than to mention qualities that everybody already knows he possesses!

To quote a graphology book that is in most libraries: "When the last stroke of the Greek d is not cast back to the left, but to the right, we have a composite indication which shows culture and refinement as innate, but also shows love of pleasure as strong. These are the people who are fine judges of music and the arts, who have 'personality' and are interesting conversationalists."

The low capitals reveal modesty and an almost complete lack of self-appreciation. The low capitals in this case also emphasize the excellent power of concentration reflected in that letter "g."

Your Handwriting Analyzed

1. Send sample of handwriting to Muriel Stafford, Chicago Tribune, post-office box 1729.
3. Inclose a self-addressed, STAMPED envelope, folded once.

FUTURE BOOKS SLASH ODDS ON DERBY HORSES

Pompoon Is Quoted at 8 to 1.

BY FRENCH LANE.

E. R. Bradley.

They are Pompoon, the favorite; Col. Edward R. Bradley's colt, Brooklyn, and Sceneshifter, owned by Col. Maxwell Howard of Ohio, whose trainer is Earl Sande. During the days when he was America's jocky idol Sande rode to three victories in the Derby.

Two commissions on Pompoon—one for $1,000 and the other for $700—were handled in Chicago this week by Frank Stone. The bets were made at odds of 10 to 1. Immediately after the second wager had been made Stone announced that the odds against Pompoon had been cut from 10 to 1 to 8 to 1.

Odds Are Slashed.

The same commissioner handled a $600 wager on Col. Bradley's Brooklyn at odds of 15 to 1. After completing it he announced the odds against this Derby eligible had been slashed to 12 to 1.

The backing for Sceneshifter came in numerous small bets, indicating probably that they had come from purely sentimental sources, because Sande is training the colt. These small wagers were so numerous, however, that the opening odds of 80 to 1 against the colt were soon slashed to 60 to 1 and yesterday were given a further slash which dropped them to 30 to 1.

Despite the fact that two of the leading Derby contenders, Privileged and Reaping Reward, are owned by Chicagoans there has been very little backing here for either.

Wright Enters Three Colts.

Privileged is owned by Warren Wright, who also has two other colts—Galsun and Gosum—in training for the Derby. Reports have come from Mr. Wright's Calumet farm, near Lexington, that Trainer Frank Kearns hasn't yet been able to decide which is the better of the three. This probably accounts for the lack of support for Privileged, although Owner Wright indicated a short time ago that this colt was his best prospect when he employed Jocky Eddie Arcaro to ride him in the Derby.

Reaping Reward is owned by Mrs. Ethel V. Mars. During the winter, Military, another colt of which Mrs. Mars is the proprietor, has been showing steady improvement. He finished second in the Santa Anita Derby. He is training now at the Arlington Downs track in Texas. He may eventually turn out to be a better 3 year old than Reaping Reward and that fact no doubt has kept admirers of Reaping Reward from betting on him.

Future Books Hard to Beat.

The rapid manner in which the future book operators have been cutting the odds against candidates on which a few wagers have been made indicates that it will be just as difficult to show a profit on a future book wager this year as it has in the past. This, too, is in face of the fact that this year's race appears to be more wide open than any run in a half dozen years.

WOOD WON'T TRY TO QUALIFY FOR DAVIS CUP TEAM

Los Angeles, Cal., March 26.—(AP)—Sidney B. Wood said today he was abandoning attempts to make the 1937 United States Davis cup tennis team.

Wood said his training plans were abruptly ended this winter when mining property in Death valley, buried by an unprecedented snowstorm, demanded his personal attention.

Wood, rated America's No. 2 player behind Wilmer Allison in 1934, made a disappointing showing in his last tournament appearance, losing to Bobby Riggs, former national junior title holder, in the Huntington invitational at Pasadena. Last fall he was eliminated in the early rounds of the annual Pacific Southwest tournament.

He Lands Big, Bad Bass, but Loses a Front Tooth

Connersville, Ind., March 26.—[Special.]—Van Frank, Connersville barber, classes bass fishing as among the dangerous sports. A three pound bass he was reeling in broke water in a leap toward him. The resulting slack in the line caused the reel to strike him in the mouth, knocking out a front tooth. But he landed the bass.

YACHTS MAY RUN INTO SQUALLS IN GULF RACE TODAY

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—Ten trim sailing yachts, the smallest number to enter a St. Petersburg-Havana race since 1932, tonight prepared for rough weather in the eighth annual renewal of the gulf racing classic.

Forecasts here were for possible squalls and uncertain winds, a contrast to the start last year when 21 yachts flashed across the line in perfect weather.

Despite threatening weather, however, more than 25,000 persons are expected to line St. Petersburg's water front to watch the yachts jocky for the starting gun at noon tomorrow. A fleet of power boats, as well as two coast guard picket boats and the cutter Nemesis, will accompany the yachts down Tampa Bay toward Egmont light, the entrance to the gulf.

The field will include three contenders for class A honors, and seven in the class B division.

SPORT DIRECTOR OF NEW ORLEANS LOYOLA U. DIES

New Orleans, La., March 26.—[Special.]—Richard J. [Moon] Ducote, 39 years old, athletic director at Loyola university, died today from a complication of diseases. Ducote, once a star full back at Alabama Poly, also served as president of the Southern Football Officials' association.

Before coming to Loyola Ducote coached Spring Hill college and was assistant coach at Louisiana State university. He officiated in the 1935 Rose Bowl game between Alabama and Stanford.

As a player Ducote was noted for his famous "helmet kick" against the University of Georgia in 1917. With one minute to play and the score 0 to 0, Ducote placed his helmet on the ground. The ball was set on the top of the helmet and Ducote shot it between the uprights from the 48 yard line to give Alabama Poly a 3 to 0 victory.

Veteran Wins Canadian Marathon; Run in Snow

TORONTO, Ont., March 26.—(AP)—Albert [Scotty] Rankine, veteran Preston, Ont., marathon runner, ploughed through fifteen miles of snow and slush to win the annual Good Friday marathon in 1 hour 29 minutes 47 seconds today. Last year's winner, Dunc McCallum of the Gladstone A. C., Toronto, finished third, a minute and 22 seconds behind Rankine and 50 seconds behind Walter Hornby of the Hamilton Olympic club. All but five of the thirty-two starters finished.

GOULD SHIES AT $10 TICKET BILL; REMAINS IN EAST

Doesn't Want to Get Into Fight with Legislature.

Joe Gould, manager of Champion James J. Braddock, came out of hiding in New York yesterday to announce that he had abandoned plans to come to Chicago until a bill passed by the state senate fixing a $10 maximum for admission tickets to the Braddock-Joe Louis contest June 22 is killed.

The bill, passed by the senate on Tuesday, is resting in the house with the probability that no action will be taken until next week. Top price for seats to the fight was to be $27.50, and, if the measure is passed, Promoter Joe Foley explained that the match would be forced out of the state.

Won't Battle Legislature.

Gould, reported to have been among the missing for 48 hours, declared:

"I'm not going to battle any legislature and I don't intend to become mixed up in a fight with politicians."

He said he would not make a move toward Chicago until certain the $10 top is eliminated.

Gould denied that Braddock was en route to Germany to reconsider an offer to box Max Schmeling in Berlin.

The champion has not been located since Monday when Madison Square Garden obtained a Circuit court order in Miami, Fla., asking Braddock to show cause why he should not fight Schmeling under the Garden's sponsorship on June 3.

Gould pointed out that if Chicago did not want the Braddock-Louis fight, several other cities did. He mentioned Detroit, Philadelphia, and Berlin.

May Shift Bout to East.

In the meantime Promoter Foley intimated that the Louis-Braddock bout may be shifted to New York after all.

"I can't be sure the match will be held in Chicago as scheduled until satisfactory arrangements have been made with the Garden," Foley said, ignoring the senate's action in passing the $10 ticket bill.

"The New York situation is the only thing that worries me now. The New York commission has reversed itself on previous occasions and it wouldn't be surprising if it decided to reconsider its ultimatum that Braddock fight Schmeling first and thus permit the champion to meet Louis with the stipulation that the winner face Schmeling. In that way everybody in New York would be satisfied, including the Garden, and the commission.

"Another thing that makes me reach this conclusion is that New York has a united front; Chicago hasn't.

LITTLE ROCK SIX WINS WOMEN'S A. A. U. CAGE TITLE

Wichita, Kas., March 26.—(AP)—The Little Rock, Ark., Flyers won the women's national A. A. U. basketball championship by defeating the heavily favored Galveston, Tex., Anicos, 17 to 10, here tonight. The teams were deadlocked, 6 to 6, at the half, and until the fourth quarter seldom were separated by more than two points.

The result was one of the most astounding upsets in tournament history. The all-star Galveston sextet met a team supposed to be much weaker and expected to be suffering from the effects of its semi-final game. Yet the Flyers bounced back from that bruising, double overtime game of last night to decisively outplay the Texans.

The Flyers replace the Tulsa Stenos as champions. The Stenos, bidding for their fourth straight crown, were defeated in the semi-finals last night and tonight lost to the Wichita Thurstons, 19 to 13, for third place. Score:

Drag De Paul In? Tch! Tch! Drag Loyola Out, He Says

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Really now, it's hard to understand how a harmless little remark such as that made recently by Paul Healy of Loyola could have made anybody mad. But it did.

In writing to THE TRIBUNE about the Loyola-De Paul basketball game scheduled for Monday evening at the Stadium, Paul remarked:

"So De Paul will have to play Loyola after all! The overrated Blue Demons almost escaped this season without facing the great Loyola quintet, but, thanks to Bishop Sheil, the game is going to be played even if De Paul has to be dragged into the Stadium by its heels."

Irritation No End.

You can't imagine how that inoffensive observation irritated some De Paul fellows. And don't think they were backward about speaking up and dragging out a few skeletons. Here's one of the letters:

"Loyola is a university, but the childlike mentality of some of its students is appalling. Imagine the Blue Demons being afraid of a team that lost to Chicago! Tch, tch, tch!

"Furthermore, Healy states that the De Paul team may have to be dragged into the Stadium by the heels. This is a gross misstatement, but it is certain that Loyola will be dragged out by the heels.

"JOHN COLE."

Reference Always Hurts.

That reference to the Chicago game always hurts. After Loyola had beaten Indiana, it expected that the Maroons would drop, too. But they didn't. This broke a string of victories of which Loyola was particularly proud.

"So De Paul is being forced into playing Loyola? I'd like to remind Mr. Healy and Loyola that for the last few years we of the editorial staf of the De Paulia have been doing everything in our power to force Loyola to get up enough nerve to play us

"It wasn't any later than this winter when we had a front page editorial challenging Loyola to play. De Paul always has a good team. This is the first year that Loyola has had anything resembling a team.

"Let me remind Mr. Healy that it was Chicago university which we beat by some 13 points that took those all-powerful Ramblers of theirs into camp by a safe margin.

"Who did Loyola beat? Indiana. And who the heck is Indiana this year? An also ran. And Nebraska? So what? Let Loyola just remember that De Paul is rated on the basis of victories over Illinois, Big Ten champion, over St. John's, one of the best in the east, and many others including Wisconsin, Pittsburgh, Detroit, St. Joseph, and Chicago.

"Loyola is rated on its showing with much easier competition. It's Loyola, not De Paul, that's overrated. We've seen Loyola in action, that's why we're glad that some one has finally forced them to play us. Loyola's deflation comes Monday.

"GENE CZACHORSKI."

The Winner! Bet Your Money on Wild Mr. Goose

Asbury Park, N. J., March 26.—[Special.]—A playful wild goose with a competitive spirit entertained shore commuters en route to New York today by beating a railroad train in a race between Point Pleasant and Long Branch, a distance of 20 miles.

The racing goose was first sighted flying low alongside the train between Point Pleasant and Asbury Park. The bird, in a burst of speed, passed the train traveling more than 50 miles an hour and circled while stops were made at Asbury Park, Elberon, and Long Branch. In each instance the honker, said witnesses, waited for the train to get a head start and then proceeded to pass it easily.

ZARZA NAMED FOOTBALL COACH AT ST. VIATOR

Kankakee, Ill., March 26.—[Special.]—Lou Zarza, member of THE TRIBUNE'S 1935 All-Star football team and a former star at Michigan State, was named head football coach at St. Viator college today, succeeding John McNamara of DeKalb, who resigned to devote his time to basketball coaching and teaching.

Zarza, a resident of East Chicago, has served as assistant football coach and director of physical education since coming to St. Viator last September. He will assume control of the football team with the opening of spring practice April 5.

Montanez Injures Ankle; Postpone Ambers Bout

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—Lou Ambers' ten round bout with Pedro Montanez, Porto Rico, scheduled for Madison Square Garden next Friday night, was postponed today. The bout will be held on April 5 or April 6. Montanez suffered an ankle injury in training, and the New York state athletic commission granted him permission to rest for several days to get into condition.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 26.—It's an old habit, so the White Sox couldn't resist dusting off the Cubs today in the opener of a spring series which will extend through eleven games. The score of 4 to 2 added one more dose to the grief the National leaguers have swallowed whenever in the company of their city rivals. The Sox now are entitled to boast of eight straight over their friendly enemies, three of them last spring and four last October.

The Sox didn't lose any time about getting down to the business at hand. Encouraged by an error on the part of Bill Jurges, they lathered Larry French's southpawing in the first inning and scored twice. The best the Cubs could do thereafter was to create a tie, but that didn't last long. The Sox dissolved the deadlock with a run off Leroy Parmelee in the sixth and for safety added another at the expense of the wild ex-Cardinal in the ninth.

Get Good Pitching.

The American leaguers were able to show off a lot of swell pitching, although not any better than the brand displayed by French despite his unhappy first inning. Bill Dietrich handled the Cubs during the three opening innings, yielding two hits, one of which was a homer by Augie Galan. For the next three innings Clint Brown served. He also yielded two hits and one run. The run, however, was made purely on bunched errors in the fourth, two by Rookie Steve Mesner and one by Norman Schlueter, the freshman catcher. Monty Stratton limited the National leaguers to one hit per inning in the seventh, eighth, and ninth.

There were some glaring weaknesses in the Cub attack, but these shouldn't be taken too seriously by adherents. Rip Collins, the ex-Cardinal, fanned once, flied out twice, and once lined to Luke Appling with two men waiting to score. Old Gabby Hartnett's sufferings were more acute, indicating that his range of vision is being reduced by an expanded waistline. Gabby hit a fly ball in his first appearance. In three subsequent attempts he struck out, Brown administering the treatment on two occasions and Stratton once.

Hayes Leads Attack.

The ringleader in the Sox attack was Jack Hayes. He drew two runs from a full house by singling in the first inning after Jurges' miscue had cost a chance to retire the side runless. Zeke Bonura and Appling also had a hand in this episode. In the sixth Hayes singled to shove along a runner who eventually scored because of Parmelee's wildness. The hit that brought another dividend on Parmelee's erratic pitching in the ninth was furnished by Rip Radcliff.

Joe Marty, the lone rookie in the Cub lineup, made a double off Dietrich, but the Cubs couldn't cash on it. He survived once on one of the three errors the Sox put together to give the Cubs their run in the fourth. He tapped to the pitcher in the sixth, and in the ninth drew the only pass issued by a Sox pitcher during the battle.

Jurges Invites Trouble.

The Sox let go with three hits in the first inning as a means of finding their way to a pair of runs. Jurges invited the demonstration by fumbling Rosenthal's grounder after French had retired the first two batters. Bonura caromed a terrific single off French's glove, but no damage resulted. Appling bounced a high single over French's head, filling the bases. Hayes then lined a single to

Arctic Blasts Keep Cubs-Sox Fans from Game

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 26.—Southern Californians still are living in horror of frost bites and the fact was reflected in the crowd at the Cubs-White Sox game today. Several thousand were present, but they looked like baseball fans, bundled like arctice explorers.

The weather was threatening but not at all severe. It was much warmer than most of the days the Cubs spent on Catalina island.

The umpiring was done on a world series basis, Babe Pinelli behind the plate and an assistant at each base. Bill Summers, at first, was the American league representative.

Owner P. K. Wrigley arrived from Chicago in time to occupy the presidential box at the end of the Cub dugout. He was accompanied by several friends from Chicago and a coterie of employés.

Tomorrow the Cubs will battle the Pittsburgh Pirates here and the Sox will motor down to Ontario to play Los Angeles. The Sox pitchers in this meeting will be Ted Lyons, Frank Papish, and Sugar Cain. The Cub pitchers in the Pirate game will be Clyde Shoun and Clay Bryant.

Most of the Sox never had seen Rip Collins perform. Before the game they asked more questions than they would about some rookie phenom.

The boot by Jurges which led to the two Sox runs in the first inning was excusable. It was a rather slow bouncer which left Bill in a quandry whether he should charge it or wait for it. Bill wound up doing a little of each and never even tried to throw.

Gabby Hartnett, on his 15th annual bow to the coast fans, got the biggest hand of all when he waddled to the plate for the first time.

Casey Stengel, the gent who will draw $15,000 for not managing the Brooklyn Dodgers this season, visited both benches before today's game.

Joe Marty's double, his first time up, was a bona fide sock. A man of moods, Joe was greatly cheered by thus starting his Cub competitive career.

Dietrich and French, starting pitchers today, also started the last game of the fall city series. On that occasion Dietrich went all the way to win, 8 to 2, allowing a single to Galan and a double to Gill in the first inning, a single by Jurges in the third inning, a double by Cavarretta and a single by Demaree in the fourth inning. After that another double by Cavarretta in the eighth was all the Cub hitting. French was knocked out on five hits and four runs in the first inning.

After the first inning today a sacrilegious camp follower familiar with the Cubs' Regular-Yannigan series at Avalon, shouted, "We want the Yannigans."

WOMEN SKATERS RESUME RIVALRY IN INDOOR MEET

Miss Horn, Mrs. Drolson to Clash.

The national indoor speed skating meet will open tonight in the Chicago Arena, Erie and McClurg court, with one of the most bitter rivalries in the women's sports field down for a decision.

Maddy Horn.

Madeline Horn of Beaver Dam, Wis., winner of THE TRIBUNE Silver Skates in 1936, will continue a feud of long standing with Dorothy Franey Drolson of St. Paul. The events in which they meet probably will be the high light of the meet. As Mrs. Drolson says she will turn professional after this event, it may be her last sanctioned race against the Wisconsin speedster.

Chet Roan of Minneapolis, president of the American Skating union, says Mrs. Drolson and Miss Horn are the two most evenly matched women skaters he ever has watched. In the North American indoor meet at St. Paul last February Mrs. Drolson won the series of races, but the following week Miss Horn won the decision in an outdoor meet at Petoskey, Mich.

Tied at 50 Points.

In their last meeting in the North American outdoor event at Saranac Lake, N. Y., called because of bad ice, each was tied at 50 points in the standings.

Tonight the senior men's 440 yard and mile events will be contested, along with senior women's races for the same distances. A majority of the nation's male stars will be on hand, including Marvin Swanson of Minneapolis, the outdoor champion; Joe Bree of New York, Delbert Lamb and Robert Peterson, Olympic skaters from Milwaukee, and Alex Hurd and Lemar Ottsen of St. Louis.

Dorothy F. Drolson.

Chicago Representatives.

Chicago's ace representatives will be Leo Freisinger and Eddie Schroeder, members of the Olympic team, and Vic Ronchetti and Al Kucera. Schroeder, Kucera, and Ronchetti all are former Silver Skates champions.

The C. Y. O. team is favorite to win the Arena trophy for the most points scored, but faces a hard battle from the Northwest Skating club and the outside invaders from St. Louis and Cleveland. St. Louis and Cleveland are particularly strong in the intermediate and junior events.

The senior men's title appears to lie between Freisinger, Ronchetti, Kucera, Schroeder, Swanson, Hurd, former Canadian titleholder; Lamb, and Darrel Albrecht.

Four Indiana Teams Seek Title Today

Indianapolis, Ind., March 26.—[Special.] — The four survivors of a month's play in a field originally including 781 teams will meet at the Butler university fieldhouse here tomorrow afternoon in the final rounds of the annual Indiana High School Athletic association basketball tournament.

Fort Wayne and Anderson have been favorites for several weeks, but Huntingburg, while definitly a pre-tournament dark horse, has not been doped to progress this far. Huntingburg defeated some of the best teams' downstate in its victory march.

Rochester never had been figured as a possible winner in the tough northwestern area that included such formidable outfits as Jefferson of Lafayette, Logansport, Frankfort, and the Lake county teams.

TABLE TENNIS MEET.

The Chicago Federated Advertising club will hold its table tennis tournament at the Stay and Play club, 168 West Monroe street, the evening of Thursday, April 15.

Tilden Sees His Chance to Even Series

With Bill Tilden's record of never having lost a tennis match in the Madison Square Garden wiped off the books last Wednesday night, he still hopes to keep his Chicago Stadium record clear when he meets Frederick Perry here tomorrow night. Perry, the 1935 and 1936 world's amateur champion who turned pro this winter, defeated Tilden Wednesday night in New York, 6-1, 6-3, 4-6, 6-0.

The cast of the Chicago Stadium show includes the five biggest names in professional tennis. Besides Tilden and Perry, the three other champions on the card are Ellsworth Vines, Vincent Richards and George Lott. These five names have twenty-eight times figured in United States amateur singles and doubles championships before the quintet turned professional.

Touring Troupes Merge.

Perry, who has already made $75,000 in his first winter of professional tennis and who expects to stretch it to $125,000 before the season is over, stands fifteen victories and seventeen defeats in his long touring series with Ellsworth Vines. This tour, on which Lott and Bruce Barnes were added names for doubles matches, was interrupted long enough to merge with the winter tour of Tilden and Richards.

In addition to the New York and Chicago appearances, the merged troupe will play at Detroit, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Boston, after which the two groups will divide.

Receipts Pass $250,000.

Already the Perry-Vines-Lott-Barnes group has passed the $250,000 mark in receipts and expects to reach $350,000 before the end of the tour.

The New York and Chicago engagements this week put the total attendance mark over 150,000 and makes professional tennis reecipts of any past winter tour shrink in comparison. Perry s earnings this winter will be several times what Dizzy Dean and Lou Gehrig finally settled for in their 1937 summer baseball contracts.

In the Stadium matches tomorrow Lott will meet Richards in singles. Then Tilden and Perry will take the court for the headline singles match. The finals will be the doubles match between Perry and Vines against Tilden and Richards.

Patsy Lou Wins Moth Class International Regatta

WINGS HOPE TO END FIRST PLACE SERIES TONIGHT

Need One More Victory to Eliminate Canadiens.

New York, March 26.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings, National Hocky league and Stanley cup champions, will move into the Montreal forum tomorrow night bent on a quick finish to their first place playoff series with the Montreal Canadiens.

The Wings and the Canadiens will be the only teams in action tomorrow evening. The New York Rangers, who advanced to the semi-final round by a two straight elimination of Toronto, will be resting and awaiting the outcome of Sunday night's final battle of the second place duel between the Boston Bruins and Montreal Maroons at Boston.

Red Wings Show Power.

The dispatch with which Detroit polished off the Canadiens in the first two games of their best-of-five series, while not as surprising as the Rangers' defeat of Toronto, is strong proof of the all round efficiency of Jack Adams' team.

The Red Wings were expected to feel the absence of injured Larry Aurie from their first string forward line. So far that absence hasn't been noticeable in the scoring records. Hec Kilrea, who took Aurie's place at right wing with Center Marty Barry and Left Wing Herb Lewis, scored twice in the first victory over the Canadiens, and Lewis once.

The Wings could afford to coast in tomorrow night's game, since they need only one more victory to go into the cup finals. But they probably will seek to end the series in short order.

Colville Is Hurt.

Despite his injury Colville played most of last night's game here, when the Rangers defeated the Leafs in their second straight game to clinch a semi-final berth in the Stanley cup playoffs. Club officials said the broken bone would not keep Colville out of the rest of the playoffs.

MORENZ ESTATE GETS SHARE.

MONTREAL, Que., March 26.—(AP)—The estate of Howie Morenz, the star Montreal Canadiens' center who died March 8, will receive the same share of the National league's team's cut in the playoff pool as if Morenz had lived to participate in the games, Canadiens' officials announced tonight.

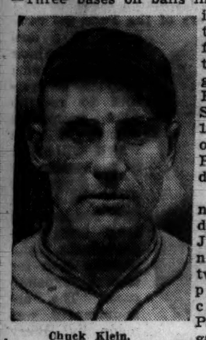
KLEIN'S HOME RUN WITH 3 ON FAILS TO SAVE PHILLIES

Red Sox Win Game in Last Inning, 12 to 10.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—Three bases on balls in the ninth inning with the bases filled and two out gave the Boston Red Sox a 12 to 10 victory over the Phillies today.



Chuck Klein.

The wildness of Rudolph and Jack Benninghoff, two rookie pitchers, cost the Phillies the game after they twice came from behind to lead.

In the sixth, a seven run rally, featured by Chuck Klein's home run with the bases loaded, gave the Phils an 8 to 5 lead. In the eighth, with Boston ahead, 9 to 8, Manager Jimmy Wilson doubled to score two runs and put his team ahead, 10 to 9. Score:

The Cubs countered with one run in their half of the first. Galan led off impressively by hoisting one of Dietrich's pitches into a little enclosure at the end of the bleacher in right field. Just for that Dietrich tightened up. He fanned both Herman and Collins. The third out was recorded on Demaree's tap to Mesner.

The remainder of Dietrich's three inning tenure was peaceful. The only other hit marked against him was a double sent into right center by Marty in the second inning. One was out at the time, and both Hack and Jurges were easy victims.

Tie Score on Errors.

The Sox rookies engaged in some good clean fun in the fourth, and on the strength of this the Cubs managed to sneak in the tying run. Brown took over the pitching and nailed Collins, the first batter, on a fly to Rosenthal. Mesner horned in on Demaree's roller which was headed straight for Appling and fumbled. After Hartnett had fanned, Demaree stole second and continued to third on a wild throw by Schlueter, who had succeeded Sewell. Mesner then fumbled Marty's roller for his second error and Demaree scored.

After three hitless innings against French, the Sox threatened in the fifth. Brown led off with a single past Herman and Radcliff singled in the same direction. The Sox planned to let Kreevich bunt, but French pitched out and Brown, who was already on his way, was nailed at third. Three strikes finally ended Kreevich's appearance at the plate, and the incident was concluded on Rosenthal's pop to Herman.

Cubs Waste Hits.

The Cubs threatened to break up the party in their fifth turn at the plate, but Brown escaped undamaged.

As soon as Parmelee made his Cub debut in the sixth he showed his old weakness. With one out he walked Appling. The Sox flashed the hit and run sign and Parmelee pitched out. This didn't stop Hayes. He reached across the plate and slapped a single over Collins' head, Appling racing to third. Mesner was plunked on the left hand by a pitched ball, loading the bases. Schlueter fanned, but Brown loitered at the plate long enough to draw a pass, Appling scoring to put the Sox ahead by 3 to 2. Radcliff ended the inning with a fly to Marty.

Galan's Throw Is Wild.

Despite his wildness, which did no damage except to raise a bruise on Rosenthal's leg, Parmelee got by in the seventh and eighth, but the Sox nicked him for a run in the ninth. The run started with a pass to Schlueter, who was forced by Stratton. Radcliff singled to center and Stratton loped to third. Walker filed to Galan and Stratton scored, the throw-in landing somewhere in the vicinity of first base. Galan never has mastered the art of accurate tossing. Rosenthal filed out to end the inning.

HOLD CHURCH TOURNAMENT.

The first annual southwest side church basketball tournament will open at the Englewood Y. M. C. A. Monday.

Michigan Swim Team Leads in N.C.A.A. Meet

Minneapolis, Minn., March 26.—[Special.]—Michigan's crack swimming team was away to a fast start in defense of its national intercollegiate swimming title in the Minnesota pool tonight. After the first night's contests had been completed Michigan had piled up 34 points, 7 more than Ohio State, its closest competitor.

Ohio State, the day's surprising team, gave the Big Ten the first two places in the team competition. The Buckeyes failed to place in one event, yet mustered sufficient strength to trail Michigan with 27 points. Then came the co-favorite with Michigan, Yale, with 21 points.

Relay Record Set.

One record was established. The Wolverine medley relay team of Cody, Kasley, and Haynie swam the 300 yard event in 2 minutes 57.8 seconds.

Yale took a 7 to 2 lead when Macionis won the 1,500 meter free style event and Brueckel placed fifth before Michigan got started. Scoring first and second in the 50 yard free style dash, with Kirar and Tomski finishing in that order, the Wolverines wiped out Yale's lead as the Blue could muster only three points in that event. Michigan remained out in front from then on.

Buckeyes Take Two Firsts.

Ohio State stepped into the picture, after being shut out in the free style dash, when Neunzig won the 150 yard back stroke, nosing out the defending champion, Zehr of Northwestern. Patterson, Big Ten diving champion, then won the one meter event to give Ohio another first.

Michigan led in firsts, picking off three to Ohio's two and one for Yale. In point score following Michigan, Ohio State and Yale, the teams were: Northwestern, 10; Iowa, 7; Stanford, 4; Chicago, 2; Minnesota, 2, and Illinois, 1. Summaries:

Cold and Snow Cancel Chicago, Little 19 Games

Bloomington, Ill., March 26.—[Special.]—Snow and cold weather combined to cause the postponement of the University of Chicago's baseball games with Bradley Tech yesterday and Illinois State Normal today. The Maroons and Bradley will play at Peoria Monday, while Normal and Chicago will attempt a double-header here tomorrow.

Coach Howard Hancock today named Dave Read of Piper City to pitch for Normal in the first game tomorrow. Marvin Hamilton, Atlanta, will start the second game. Two freshmen southpaws, Dave Rydeen of Bloomington and Lyle Brent of Stanford, will be used in the closing innings of the double-header.

Iowa Team Joins Leaders in A.B.C. Meet

New York, March 26.—(AP)—The Hartford, Conn., Spartans and the Clinton, Ia., Corn and Gloss Starch team rolled into the top ten in the five man standings in the American Bowling Congress tonight.

Rolling on the same shift, the Hartford team compiled a total of 2,919 to move into third place, while the Iowans took over sixth with 2,900. The Garden Recreation team of Detroit also captured a place among the leaders, taking tenth with a 2,873 total.

These three team scoring feats followed an afternoon card which brought new second place holders in both singles and all events; Nat Addis and Lloyd Vetter of Bayonne, New Jersey.

JEWELL DORSETT CHOICE TO TAKE LOUISIANA DERBY

14 Others Race Tomorrow for $10,000 Purse.

New Orleans, La., March 26.—(AP)—A little bay filly named Jewell Dorsett probably will be the favorite in the 17th running of the $10,000 Louisiana Derby Sunday, despite the fact none of her sex ever has won the mile and a quarter test.

If this three year old daughter of Cohort-Michigan Girl is the first to go past the judges Sunday afternoon at the Fair Grounds, she will defeat, as well as precedent, 14 other crack three year olds entered in Louisiana racing's richest stake.

It was learned today that neither Pompoon, J. H. Louchheim's contender, nor Military, second to Fairy Hill in the $50,000 Santa Anita Derby, would be here.

No standout horse such as A. G. Tarn's Rushaway, which captured the 1936 Derby, is in the field this year.

Form players were swinging to Jewell Dorsett, basing their preference on the filly's fine record as a two year old when she hung up a track record for ⅝ of a mile at Suffolk Downs. The Lone Star stable contender also showed she could go a distance when early this week she beat a good field, including several Derby entries, by galloping a mile in 1:39 3-5.

Schnabel Will Meet Ali Baba at Coliseum

Ken Fenlon has been named to oppose Frankie Hart in a featured encounter on the mat card at White City Monday. Nango Singh and Jack Conley share headline honors. Jerry Meeker meets Otto Schnabel, and Paul Miller clashes with George Kontylis. . . . Carl Vinciguerra expects to make his second professional appearance in a four rounder against a fit foe at Marigold Gardens Monday. The 1936 light heavyweight Golden Gloves king knocked out Jim Kennedy in one round in his pro debut at St. Paul recently. The bout completes Monday's program, which is topped by a ten rounder involving Harold Brown and the classy Al Manfredo. In the secondary attraction Tommy Howell and Phil Rosenberg will be opponents for five rounds. Scraps at four sessions match Freddy Allen and Emil Campagna, and Al Schwartz with Jackie Reed.

Johnny Phagan, west side middleweight, intends to weigh 154 pounds for his eight round main event against Kid Leonard at Rainbo Fronton next Friday. This poundage is six under the agreed weight. . . . Billy Marquart, 1936 Canadian Olympic featherweight monarch, who has been knocking the daylights out of professional opposition, may engage in matches at Milwaukee Thursday, and Marigold Gardens April 5. . . . Tom Andrews is seeking to sign Davey Day for a conflict with Larry Greb at Milwaukee, April 23. . . . Lou Gross has taken over the management of Billy Gladstone, north side welterweight.

Johnny Erjavec, Duluth heavyweight, likely will fight Eddie Simms at Cleveland, April 6. . . .Frankie Sagillo, out of competition for several weeks, started workouts yesterday in preparation for a contest with Tony Petroskey at Muskegon, Mich., April 9. . . Hank Bath's defeat by Cowboy Frankie Edgren at Denver, last Monday cost the Fort Morgan fighter an eight rounder against Jack Gibbons at Detroit Olympia, Monday. Billy Nichy has been substituted against Gibbons. . . . Charley Foley and Tom Healer have been leased to the International arena in Kansas City, Mo., for the promotion of weekly fights, starting next month. F. M.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—KNOCK, KNOCK!

Boston Sends 18 Badminton Stars to Meet

Eighteen contestants from Boston, eleven women and seven men, will arrive Wednesday in a chartered car to compete in the first national badminton tournament of the American Badminton association, sponsored by the Evanston Infant Welfare Juniors at the Naval Reserve armory April 1, 2, and 3.

Boston and the New England states will supply many of the stars in the meet, as badminton has been popular there longer than in most sections of the United States. The game was introduced to Boston in 1908.

Included in the group coming to Chicago will be Mrs. George Wightman, donor of the Wightman tennis cup, who will play in the women's doubles events with Miss Eleanor Collier.

The Richardson twins, Phil and Don, included in this contingent, are picked by Jess Willard, badminton professional at the Evanston Country club, as possible winners of the men's doubles. They have won the title in the Massachusetts and New England championships matches. They will also enter the mixed doubles in which they have won sectional ranking. Don Richardson will play with Miss Patience Radford, outstanding player among New England women who is also entering the women's singles and the women's doubles with Miss Patricia Bird. Phil Richardson will enter mixed doubles with Miss Junia Mason.

Other women players coming from Boston include Miss Margaret Spencer and Miss Elizabeth Smith who will pair up in the women's doubles.

Time, 1:47. Two dollar mutuels paid: Lone Hand $8.10 straight, $4.30 place, $3.40 show; Felsa $5.60 place, $3.40 show; Toni $7.30 show. Winner, ch. g., 7, by Single Foot-Enchantment Jr. Owner, Mrs. C. P. Lindner. Trainer, C. P. Lindner.

LONE HAND had to be much the best to win. He broke well, but trailed far back. He began to move up fast turning out of backstretch, came around field and when straightened in stretch, PEERLESS PAL swerved out knocking him off his stride, but he recovered and, finishing fast, won going away. PEERLESS PAL took a tired swerve at the furlong pole interfering with the winner and was disqualified for foul. FELSA, showed good speed, but suffered interference in final furlong. TONI ran good race. THE SINGER came with a rush in the last three furlongs. MYPONE did not like the going.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and a furlong. Three year olds. Claiming. Purse, $900. Net value to winner, $650; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25.

VEILED LADY, at home in the sloppy going, raced HORNET into defeat, drew away, winning easily. VAN NUYS moveup gamely around turn and was next best. BRED IN BLUE was taken wide in stretch and closed fast. HORNET had plenty of speed, but tired suddenly. BLACK COHORT did not like the going.

DARK WIZARD, under good handling, assumed lead going into first turn, opened wide gap, tired but stood long drive gamely. TRUJILLO, away poorly, was forced to go around field and was wearing the winner down. PRETTYLASS saved ground and had no excuse. SANDY BOY ran good race. MANTADOS quit badly.

BORG-WARNER QUARTER PROFIT ABOVE LAST YEAR

Two for One Stock Split Is Approved.

Borg-Warner corporation earnings for the first quarter of 1937 will show an increase over a year ago, President C. S. Davis told stockholders at their annual meeting in the Congress hotel yesterday, at which they unanimously approved a 2 for 1 split in stock and an amendment to the charter broadening the concern's activities.

As a result of the action the authorized capital stock was increased from 1,500,000 shares of $10 par value to 3,000,000 shares of $5 par value, with present stockholders to receive two shares for each share now held.

Business Is Expanded.

The amendment to the charter was described by G. A. Shallberg of Moline, Ill., general counsel and a director, as merely desirable from a legal standpoint. Borg-Warner was originally chartered as a holding company for making automotive parts, but since then has considerably expanded its activities.

Davis reported that 46.74 per cent of 1936 sales were represented by automotive products, 39.12 per cent in household equipment, 8.79 per cent in steel products and power equipment, and 5.35 per cent in agricultural implement parts.

"In spite of strikes in the automobile industry we shall be able to show stockholders an increase in profit over the first quarter of 1936, and it will be a fair increase," said Davis. "We would have been able to show a larger increase had it not been for the strikes."

Reports indicated the company earned around $1.25 a share, or about $1,400,000 in the first two months of 1937. In the first quarter of last year profit was $1,575,000, or $1.34 a share.

View on Surplus Tax.

"It is unfortunate that we have this undistributed profits tax. It goes against the grain to pay it, but we should consider it either as an evil we cannot avoid or else as an insurance against financial stringency in the future.

"I think we can all agree it would be unjust to be overly liberal to stockholders now at the sacrifice of our future position. Your directors have no prejudice against extra dividends, and they will be declared and paid whenever thought prudent."

It was disclosed at the meeting that the company recently purchased the Muncie Foundry company of Muncie, Ind., for $70,000.

ABNORMAL RISE IN CAR LOADINGS SETS 1937 PEAK

Freight trafic last week reached a new high for the year for the third successive week, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday.

A total of 759,269 cars was loaded during the week ended March 20, an increase of 1.4 per cent over the 748,993 cars loaded during the preceding week, and a gain of 190,418 cars or 33.5 per cent over the corresponding week a year ago.

The increase was more than seasonal. Larger shipments of coal were responsible for much of the gain.

E. A. PIERCE & CO. TO APPEAL $41,800 PROFIT CLAIM

E. A. Pierce & Co. will file an appeal today on the decision of the Chicago Board of Trade arbitration committee on Thursday to uphold a claim for $41,800 made against the firm by Otto Madlener, a customer of the firm, Winthrop H. Smith, resident partner of the firm, said last night.

Madlener's claim was for profits which he said were due him as a result of extensive trading through the brokerage firm in the grain and securities markets over a period of more than two years. The firm asserted that he had lost rather than profited on these transactions.

BRANIFF AIRWAYS BUYS FIVE NEW DOUGLAS PLANES

A fleet of five Douglas DC-2 airliners capable of carrying 14 passengers has been purchased by Braniff Airways, Inc., and will be placed in service on the company's route from Chicago to Brownsville, Tex., about June 1, T. E. Braniff, president, announced yesterday.

"The new equipment will increase our passenger capacity by 140 per cent," said Braniff. "This increase will barely meet the demand for seats as our business increased 154 per cent during 1936."

CATTLE PRICES MOVE HIGHER IN ACTIVE TRADING

Unusual activity marked trading in the cattle market yesterday, the scant supply selling quickly at steady to slightly higher prices. Hogs declined 10 to 15 cents when receipts in that branch exceeded expectations, but lambs sold 25 to 35 cents higher.

All classes of steers and yearlings were strong to slightly higher. Beef cows and hefers were scarce and steady to strong, with canners and cutters a shade higher.

Demand for hogs showed a marked preference for butchers weighing 250 to 275 pounds. These slightly outsold the 200 to 210 pound stock that had been bringing top prices recently. The average price at $10.30 showed a decline of 10 cents.

The rise in fat lambs carried this class to the highest levels since middle of last week. Wool stock reached $12.85, a gain of 75 cents in two days.

AUTO OUTPUT RISES SLIGHTLY DURING WEEK

Automobile production in the United States and Canada increased slightly this week, estimates of two leading statistical agencies disclosed yesterday.

Ward's Automotive Reports, Inc., placed assemblies at 101,115 cars and trucks, compared with 98,978 last week and 101,965 a year ago. Cram's Reports, Inc., estimated the total at 101,805, against 99f450 and 105,415, respectively.

Ward's credited General Motors with 54,020 units, compared with 52,764 last week and 38,200 in the same week of 1936. Ford's production was estimated at 34,800, unchanged from a week ago, compared with 26,560 in the 1936 period. No estimate was issued on Chrysler.

Tobey Furniture Enlarges Michigan Avenue Store

The Tobey Furniture company has enlarged its store at the northwest corner of Michigan avenue and Lake street by leasing from the estate of Stanley McCormick the three upper floors of the building to the north formerly occupied by Ovington's of New York, the company announced yesterday. A new lease on the present Tobey store space was negotiated for a term of years. The company is entering its 83d year under the continuous management of the family that founded it, now in the third generation.

Domestic Markets Reopen Today

Leading commodity and financial markets throughout the world were closed yesterday in observance of Good Friday. # U. S. TREASURY TO STORE SILVER AT WEST POINT

Strongbox Will Guard 2 Billion Ounces.

Washington, D. C., March 26.—(AP)—The treasury, seeking greater protection for its silver hoard, disclosed today it will construct a squat steel and concrete depository near the West Point, N. Y., military academy. Its gold depository is near the Fort Knox, Ky., military reservation.

Officials said bids on the $600,000 strongbox for silver probably will be asked in the next few weeks.

Although a specific site at West Point has not been selected, officials said this probably will be done shortly. Under present plans the depository will be situated in the center of a four acre tract surrounded by high steel fence.

It will hold 2 billion ounces of silver, or about 70 tons. This is about $900,000,000 worth at current rates and is approximately double the treasury's present holdings.

The building, made of steel reenforced concrete, will have space for office workers, regular guards, and a force of machine gunners. The gunners will be stationed in concealed niches in the walls.

Assayers' and other offices will be in the front of the one story building, which measure 150 to 250 feet. The Fort Knox depository is only 105 by 121 feet.

Officials said West Point was selected as the site because of the protection provided by the military academy and accessibility to transportation facilities.

ILLINOIS JOBS, PAY ROLLS RISE IN FEBRUARY

Employment of 6,220 Illinois industrail enterprises increased 1.7 per cent in February over January, while wages rose 4.2 per cent, the state department of labor announced yesterday.

Gains in the Chicago area were somewhat smaller than those for the state as a whole. Chicago's 3,469 reporting establishments had increases of 1.2 per cent of persons employed to 434,107, and 3.7 per cent in total wages paid.

Employment in the middle west increased 2.5 per cent and pay roll volumes climbed 8 per cent during the month ended Feb. 15, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported.

French Bonds Sold in U. S. to Be Paid on Gold Basis

PARIS, March 26.—(AP)—The ministry of finance announced tonight that the 20 year, 5½ per cent bonds floated in the United States by the French government in 1917 will be repaid on a gold basis instead of in devalued francs. This loan totaled 15,000,000,000 gold francs (about $2,895,000,000 in 1917. Only part was floated in the United States.

Everyday Economics

Stock Market Calls.

Puts and calls in the stock market are a form of "insurance" to protect buyers and sellers from undue losses, although in practice they are used largely for speculative purposes. They are not traded on the stock exchanges, but on the over the counter market, and can be obtained from any large brokerage house. This is how they work:

Suppose you buy a call in American Rat Trap stock, which is quoted at $30 a share. This call will cost $137.50 for 100 shares, and will probably be written 2 points away from the market—that is, at $32 a share. This call gives you the right to purchase from the seller at any time within 30 days 100 shares of the stock at the price the call was written—$32. The seller believes that the stock will not rise above the price at which the contract was written. If this proves to be the case the owner of the call will not demand the stock and the seller will pocket the $137.50 as his profit.

How does this benefit the buyer of the call? Let us say the price of Rat Trap goes to $35 a share. You demand the stock from the seller of the call, which he must supply you at the stipulated price of $32 a share. Thus you have a 3 point profit, which on 100 shares amounts to $300, less commission and cost of the option. If the stock does not rise above $32, then theoretically you have lost your $137.50 paid for the call when the contract expires in 30 days.

However, calls may be used to limit losses. You bought your call at $30. You believe the market will go down. You sell 100 shares of American Rat Trap short. If the market does go down you make a profit on the short sale and lose the money you paid for the call. But you have had insurance against a wrong guess. After your short sale at $30 the price of the stock might have risen to $35. In this case you exercise your call at $32, using this stock to make delivery on your short commitment. Your loss is $200, or 2 points a share on 100 shares. Without your option to buy at $32 you would have had to pay the market price of $35 and take a loss of $500.

Tomorrow: Stock Market Puts.

RETAIL SALES RISE TO NEW PEAK FOR YEAR

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—A final surge in Easter shopping has moved retail sales to a new high level for the year, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. Distribution for the country as a whole in the last week ran 4 to 10 per cent ahead of the preceding week and 12 to 30 per cent over a year ago.

Less activity was reported in wholesale markets, most of the attention centering on the fulfilment of immediate shipments of last minute reorders. An unsettling element was the spread of labor difficulties which prevented industrial operations from normal extension.

TWO NEW BANKS ARE PLANNED FOR OUTLYING AREAS

Two new national banks may soon be organized for outlying areas. Three separate applications have been presented to the controler of the currency for chartering a national bank at Berwyn, and a committee of business people of River Grove and Elmwood Park is sponsoring a plan for a new bank for that locality.

National bank examiners are investigating the feasibility of a national bank for Berwyn, which, according to plans, would be located on the southwest corner of Oak Park and Windsor avenues in quarters formerly occupied by the defunct Berwyn State bank. The bank would be capitalized at $100,000 and would be known as the First National Bank of Berwyn.

The committee working on the proposed Elmwood Park-River Grove bank is headed by Theodore Blandelin, president of the Grand and Marlem Chamber of Commerce.

INVENTOR AT 8

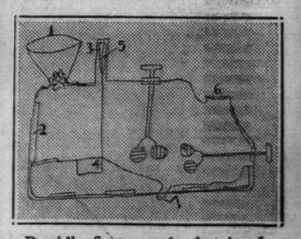
Hurriedly he prepares for the big day ahead. He will lecture before inventors Monday.

Plenty of milk is one of the items in young Mr. Suddeth's program of keeping the human machine working properly so that it can produce machines to reduce labor.

Here the youthful Oklahoman is thinking out an idea for an invention. Benjamin Franklin, whose autobiography the boy was reading yesterday, and Thomas A. Edison are his heroes.



David's first rough sketch of an invention to peel and mash boiled potatoes in such a manner as to preserve the vitamins. Some steps in the process remain to be perfected, David said. Potatoes boiled in jackets go into funnel (1) and are cut by knives at neck; a slapper (2) pushes them through ricing screen (3); scraper drops peels into pit (4); another knife (5) scrapes potatoes into chamber, where they are whipped by two rotary devices and mixed with cream poured in at 6. Whipped potatoes come out at 7 upon a hot plate. Electric power would be used. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

PRESIDENT ENDS VACATION

Vacation at an end, the President boarded special train at Warm Springs and waved to throng at tiny station. Back in the capital he will face the problem of curbing sitdown strikes which have been sweeping the nation. [Associated Press Wirephotos.]

GEISHAS WIN THEIR STRIKE

Prayers and cold water were used by the geishas of Japan in recent strike against employers for more rights. These girls are offering a fervent prayer by pouring water on themselves at Ozoyin temple on summit of Mount Shigi.

Instead of sitting down, in the American fashion, the geishas moved to a temple and spent much time in prayer for the success of their strike. They are shown in their religious ritual. [Acme Photos.]

FREIGHTER SINKS IN ATLANTIC GALES; CREW OF SIXTEEN RESCUED—Dramatic scene 650 miles east of Boston last Tuesday as the crew of the Norwegian freighter entered lifeboat (indicated by arrow) before being taken aboard the coast guard cutter Chelan, in the foreground.
